Christmas Holiday Passes; Americans Awaiting New Year

By SAM BOYLE
Associated Press Writer

Memories, leftovers and drying Christmas trees filled American homes at the end of the holiday weekend and left many a family waiting for the new year and the bills of Christmas past.

Many who had spent weeks battling department store crowds celebrated the end of the Christmas season by returning to the fray to look for post-holiday bargains. For those, there are only four more shopping days until 1977.

And for those who got the oversized sweater or just had a "reject," there was the customary wait in exchange lines.

The Christmas weekend was one in which most of the world was peaceful, if not at peace.

Pope Paul VI held the traditional midnight Mass, which was beamed live to a television audience of about one billion people in 32 nations. The Pope's Christmas message asked, "Let us honor man, whoever he may be — in whom the likeness of the divine image of Christ is reflected — and wherever there is greater need of comfort and of help."

The Irish Republican Army announced no cease-fire over the holidays, but IRA sources confirmed that the word had been passed to observe a holiday truce.

A prominent Palestinian leader and his finance were murdered, the only incident in an otherwise peaceful Lebanon.

Rocket and bazooka explosions along the Jordan river could be heard in Bethlehem, birthplace of Jesus, where an estimated 15,000 to 20,000 pilgrims gathered for a Christmas Eve celebration.

Battle Lines Drawn For Chicago Mayor

By MIKE ROBINSON
Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — The battle line has been drawn in the struggle to succeed Richard J. Daley as mayor of the nation's second largest city, with blacks on one side and whites on the other.

Black leaders were united behind Alderman Wilson Frost of the South Side, while white leaders backed Alderman Michael Bilandic of Daley's 11th Ward.

The City Council was scheduled to meet Tuesday to elect an acting mayor from among the aldermen to serve until a special election is held in six months. Black supporters of Frost, who appeared to be the underdog, brought their campaign to the public, while the Bilandic supporters met behind the scenes to line up the 25 votes he needs.

In an advertisement in today's Chicago newspapers, the Rev. Jesse L. Jackson, national president of Operation PUSH (People United to Save Humanity), said, "Wilson Frost should not be the interim mayor because he is black, nor any person because of his ethnic heritage. But neither should he be denied the ascendancy because he is black."

The advertisement, signed by more

President Ford spent Christmas Day on the ski slopes at Vail, Colo., where a much needed snow fell Friday, and he joined millions of other Americans Sunday in watching the televised football games.

One of the gifts Ford received was a humorous present from daughter Susan. She gave him a black bath towel embroidered with the initials "MCP" — "Male Chauvinist Pig."

President-elect Carter's 9-year-old daughter, Amy, kept his Plains, Ga., household hopping. She awakened her family at 5 a.m. Saturday, but still was rewarded with a doll house and her own telephone.

The Christmas weekend was a white one over much of the Northeast and parts of the Midwest, providing a testing ground for new sleds and hazardous driving conditions in many places.

About 400 persons were killed in traffic accidents over the three-day holiday, the National Safety Council reported.

The council had estimated that 460 to 500 persons would be killed during the counting period that began at 6 p.m. Thursday and ended midnight Sunday, local time.

Some 397 persons died last year in traffic accidents when Christmas was observed as a four-day weekend.

Tragedy in the form of fire marked the holiday for some families across the nation. Twelve persons, including 10 children, died when a fire swept the Chicago apartment building where Jesus Garcia was celebrating his 11th birthday on Christmas Eve. And three young boys died and their widowed mother was injured in a Fairfield, Maine, fire that officials believe started in the family's Christmas tree.

than 100 community leaders, most of them black, criticized a reported agreement under which two key City Hall power brokers, Aldermen Edward R. Vrdolyak and Edward Burke, reportedly agreed to support Bilandic in return for increased importance in the council.

"This back-room deal assumes that might at night is right," Jackson said. There were reports that a similar deal might be lined up — offering Frost greater power in the City Council — to head off his candidacy and preserve Democratic unity against a possible Republican challenge in the special election by former Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie.

Others suggested that Frost, who was not available for comment, already had realized he could not win the acting mayor election but would seek the post to set himself up for a serious run in the Democratic primary for the special election.

Blacks, once the reliable backbone of the regular organization, have become increasingly independent. They make up the largest ethnic bloc in the city.

Speculation about the special election also includes independent Democrats William S. Singer and Edward V. Hanrahan.

Carter Meets Cabinet

PLAINS, Ga. (AP) — President-elect Carter is convening a series of preinauguration meetings of his cabinet at a secluded island plantation, with discussions of possible tax cuts and the general state of the economy expected to be high on the agenda.

Carter was scheduled to fly to St. Simon's Island near Brunswick, Ga., aboard a commercial chartered airliner today after spending a quiet Christmas with his family in Plains.

Vice President-elect Walter Mondale and most of the new cabinet members were to fly to the island estate from Washington on an Air Force jet.

Carter begins his three-day series of meetings by conferring on economic problems with Michael Blumenthal, the Bendix Corp. chairman named Treasury secretary; Thomas B. Lance, the Atlanta banker chosen as director of the Office of Management and Budget; and Charles Schultze, the economist who will be chairman of Carter's Council of Economic Advisers.

The sessions with the cabinet members, who take over the federal government with Carter on Jan. 20, were planned as free-wheeling and informal. Carter aides said they were designed to let the President-elect and his appointees discuss policies and get to know each other.

"This is the start of his treatment of the cabinet officers as the principal staff and the main means of carrying out what he hopes to do in his administration," said Rex Granum, a Carter spokesman.

But the man Carter defeated in last month's election says Carter probably will have trouble fulfilling his campaign promises.

President Ford said in an ABC-TV interview to be aired Jan. 2: "I think he is going to find that you can't turn a switch and automatically increase employment and decrease unemployment; he can't, by the waving of a wand, eliminate a deficit, even over a period of time."

Meanwhile, Time magazine named Carter as its "Man of the Year," and in an interview, Carter told the magazine he hopes to complete an agreement with the Soviet Union on limiting strategic arms before the current arms pact expires next October.

He said he this could mean a meeting with Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev, "probably before September" and that "my own preference would be in this country."

On Middle East peace talks, Carter said he thought he should meet with some of the area's leaders and then "decide what public proposals we might make to initiate any peace talks."

The President-elect is scheduled also to discuss the financial problems of New York State and New York City with Gov. Hugh Carey and Mayor Abraham Beame in a private meeting Tuesday.

Carter told his Sunday school class at Plains Baptist Church that his mother, "Miss Lillian" Carter, would remain hospitalized for two or three days. She was hospitalized last Wednesday, and Carter said she has been suffering from "muscular spasms" in her left leg that causes her pain when she walks.

youngest sons, and injured her and her seven other children.

"They'll never smile again," said a close friend who watched ambulances take the surviving family members to the hospital.

Last year, on Thanksgiving Day, Mrs. Reynolds' 36-year-old husband, William, died of a heart attack while recovering from a serious snowmobile accident.

And it was the Fourth of July 1974 holiday period when another Reynolds child, 9-year-old Dwayne, drowned with a cousin when they fell into a hole filled with water while playing in the woods.

On Sunday morning, when fire units arrived at the Reynolds' home in a rural section of Fairfield, they found the two-story wood-frame house ablaze.

"Flames were shooting out from all sides of the house," said Fire Chief Benjamin Leighton. "We knew that some of the kids were still trapped inside and though it only took us five minutes to get to them, we were still too late."

He said more people might have died had it not been for the quick thinking of one of the girls.

"I'm sure that Melody saved several lives," he explained. "She's only 12, but she forced her bothers and sisters out the windows or they also might have been trapped. She tried to save the three young boys, but they panicked and ran away from her."

"We found three small, badly burned bodies huddled together in a second floor bedroom."

They were Keith, 4; Carl, 3; and Dirk, 2.

Four ambulances took the survivors to Mid-Maine Medical Center in Waterville. Mrs. Reynolds, 34, and two of her children were treated and released.

Five of the children remained hospitalized in satisfactory condition with first- and second-degree burns, lacerations and possible fractures.

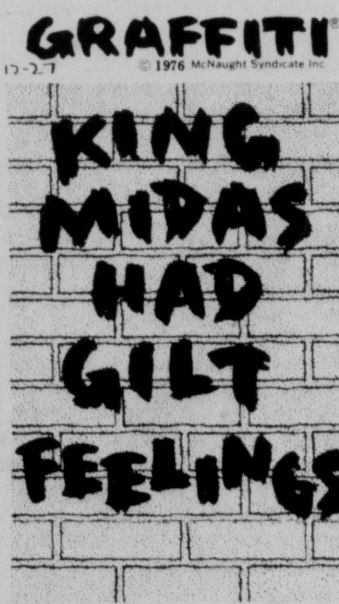

Mrs. Reynolds had been making a living by raising chickens.

"Dorothy never asked or took help from anybody. She fed and clothed her family from what she made with her chicken farm and she never complained," a neighbor said.

Four investigators from the state fire marshal's office spent Sunday digging through the remains of the home but had not determined the cause of the blaze.

"We're sure it had something to do with the Christmas tree," Leighton said. "It had been in the home for two weeks and we believe the baseboard heating had dried it to the flash-point."

Federal Panel Attacks Tape

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

A federal panel is trying to unspool some of the red tape wrapped around the government bureaucracy.

The Commission on Federal Paperwork was established in October 1975 to study the maze of paperwork involved in government and make recommendations on how to simplify, shorten and eliminate some of the bureaucratic forms.

The group is now seeking comment from the public, at a series of hearings which began last month and continues through May in cities across the country.

President Ford also ordered a cut in the number of federal forms sent to Americans. Figures from the Office of Management and Budget show that he succeeded — to a degree at least.

Ford's campaign cut the number of forms by more than 10 per cent. But a new pension law and an increased number of students applying for federal scholarships have boosted the amount of time it takes to fill out the forms.

The paperwork commission is due to make its final report next October. So far, it has issued 100 formal and informal recommendations which, it says, could save billions of dollars.

One concrete action already resulting from a commission recommendation was the passage of a law requiring employers to report the wages of their employees only once a year instead of once every three months. The commission estimates the change eliminated 24 million pages of forms.

Among other specifics: —The commission urged authorities to combine application forms for 41 federal and state welfare and income security programs. The idea is being tested in six states, and the commission says the plan could save $6 billion a year on a nationwide basis.

—The commission called for development of a uniform health billing form for government agencies, hospitals, nursing homes and private insurance companies for Medicare and Medicaid patients. Estimated annual savings: $150 million.

—The commission suggested a simpler system for collecting and reporting energy statistics. Estimated annual savings: $30 million.

If you have ideas on how to eliminate paperwork or cut red tape, tell the commission. Hearings will be held in Omaha, Neb., on Jan. 13 and 14; in New Orleans, Feb. 10 and 11; in Washington, Feb. 24 and 25; in Denver, March 17 and 18; in Washington, April 7 and 8; in Los Angeles, April 14 and 15; and in Dallas, May 26 and 27.

U.S. Slips Again In Income

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans slipped another notch on the list of the world's wealthiest people in 1975, and there are now five countries where per capita income is higher, the World Bank says.

The World Bank also said there has been a virtual stagnation of growth among industrialized nations since 1973 and continuing increases in population among developing nations.

The United States' per capita income of $7,060 was exceeded last year by Kuwait, $11,510; United Arab Emirates, $10,480; Qatar, $8,320; Switzerland, $8,050; and Sweden, $7,880, the World Bank said in a report released Sunday.

Per capita income is figured by dividing a nation's gross national product, or total production of goods and services, by its population.

Qatar, an oil-producing nation, was a new addition to the World Bank list in 1975. The other nations listed above the United States all had higher incomes than the United States in 1974 as well.

Other nations with incomes near the United States were Denmark, $6,920; Canada, $6,650; Germany, $6,610; and Norway, $6,540. Denmark and Norway made substantial gains and could surpass the United States in the 1976 list, if the trend continues.

The World Bank cautioned, however, that its figures for 1975 were preliminary and based on tentative information in some cases.

The United States per capita income was up from $6,670 the year before, the bank said. However, the increase was not adjusted for the impact of inflation, which would make the gain somewhat less.

The bank said there were 19 nations with per capita incomes exceeding $5,000 in 1974 with combined total populations of 412 million.

By contrast, there were 75 nations with populations totaling 2.3 billion where income was less than $500. There were 33 nations with populations of more than 1.2 billion where income was less than $200.

The bank said significant changes in the relative value of currencies in recent years has caused the shift in income-ranking among developed nations.

For example, the German mark and Swiss franc have increased in value, while the French franc and British pound have decreased. The U.S. dollar has remained relatively stable for the past year, although it has lost ground against German and Swiss currencies.

While economies in much of the industrialized world expanded in dollar terms, there actually was a shrinking of over-all incomes in terms of real buying power, the bank said.

In 1974, the bank said, the U.S. per capita income in so-called real terms was down $170 from the year before, while income in Switzerland increased in real terms by $130 and in Sweden by $270.

Saudi Arabia, the world's largest oil exporter, had the largest real increase in income of any nation in 1974, up $560 to $2,830.

More Snow On The Way For Ohio

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The wizards who managed to conjure up a white Christmas for Ohio must be wishing hard for a snow-covered New Year as well.

A new layer of the white stuff covered most of Ohio Sunday and forecasters are saying that new storms and cold temperatures may keep the snowmen among us happy throughout the final week of 1976.

The National Weather Service says a new storm should blanket most of the state with a fresh cover of snow late tonight. The extended forecast indicates there's a chance of snow each day through Friday, possibly mixed with daytime rain in southern portions.

Travelers advisories were up Sunday night for all of Ohio as vacationers headed home after the Christmas holiday. The highway patrol reported road surfaces were generally covered with snow, adding that ramps and bridges on interstate highways were slippery and treacherous.

By midafternoon, Mansfield reported four inches of snow and Findlay, three inches.

Salt trucks were called out to clean up city streets in Cincinnati Sunday night as snow began causing slick road conditions. According to reports, motorists were encountering hazardous conditions in hilly areas where glazed road surfaces made traction difficult.

Police in Cincinnati say some roads were closed in the city until the salt began to cut down on the icy surfaces.

Plows were also called out in Columbus Sunday evening as a layer of snow blown by gusty winds packed city streets. Accumulations in the Columbus area last night were from one to two inches.

Winds in most of the state were to decrease today and shift during the afternoon from the west to southwest at 10 to 20 miles an hour.

The national weather service said a storm forming in the northern plains is expected to move east over Ohio before dawn Tuesday. Snow is forecast ahead of the storm for most of the state. Temperatures throughout the week should rise into the upper 20s and low 30s in the north, and the mid 30s to low 40s in the south.

State Auditor Releases School Allotments

The December State School Foundation Subsidy payment of $61,866,472.90 to Ohio's 613 city, exempted village and local school districts and 87 county boards of education, was reported today by State Auditor Thomas E. Ferguson.

He additionally reported $2,735,278.51 was distributed to 43 joint vocational school districts representing their December allotment.

The December state subsidy payment would have been $82,815,872.83, however, the Ohio Office of Budget and Management temporarily withheld $20,949,399.93 destined for the teachers' and school employees' retirement systems because of the state's financial squeeze.

The State Teachers' Retirement System eventually will receive $16,832,423.93 and the school Employees' Retirement System will receive $4,116,976 as the employers' share of the pension program for December, Ferguson added. The 87 county boards of education received $2,654,300.33 for the month.

The 184 city school districts divided $32,720,762.31 while the 380 local school districts split $23,531,397.79. The 49 exempted village school districts shared $2,960,012.47 of the disbursement, Ferguson said.

State School Foundation Subsidy payments are sent to the 88 county auditors who distribute the amounts due the district within the respective counties.

Payments to the joint vocational school districts are sent directly to the districts' clerk-treasurers.

In Pickaway County, net payment to the four districts and the county board was $251,371.31. Breakdowns on this amount include $342,922.59 for transportation and basic allowances, $11,872 deducted for school employee retirement and $59,413.41 deducted for state teachers retirement.

The allotment to the county board of education was $20,265.87. Net payment to the individual school districts is: Circleville City, $89,495.29; Logan Elm Local, $52,871.68; Teays Valley Local, $61,242.82; and Westfall Local, $47,771.52.

High Court Schedules Executions

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Three more convicted murderers were given execution dates today following review of their cases by the Supreme Court.

The court set Feb. 28 electric chair executions for John William Harris and James Jerome Royster, both of Columbus, and Robert Paul Lytle of Greene County.

Thirteen condemned men have been handed death dates since late November.

Harris and Royster were both convicted of aggravated murder, kidnapping, rape and robbery in the May, 1974 slaying of Jeanette Nichols, a Columbus nurse. They were sentenced to die following mitigation hearings.

Harris was tried before a three-judge panel after which it was discovered he had not signed a written waiver of jury trial, although the defendant and his attorney waived the right in court. "Whereupon it is discovered that there is no written waiver," the high court said, "and counsel and defendant promptly execute a written waiver, such procedure shall be deemed to satisfy the procedural requirements of the rule."

In Royster's case, the Supreme Court noted the requirement that one or more of the three mitigating circumstances must be established by a preponderance of the evidence and said "the burden does not shift to the state to prove that an established circumstance does not exist beyond a reasonable doubt."

Lytle was convicted of the August 1974 murder of Wallace Archibald in Greene County during a kidnap and robbery.

The court said "when presenting an allegation of ineffective assistance of trial counsel to a reviewing court, an appellant must initially show a substantial violation of an essential duty by that counsel."

U.S. Slips Again In Income

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans slipped another notch on the list of the world's wealthiest people in 1975, and there are now five countries where per capita income is higher, the World Bank says.

The World Bank also said there has been a virtual stagnation of growth among industrialized nations since 1973 and continuing increases in population among developing nations.

The United States' per capita income of $7,060 was exceeded last year by Kuwait, $11,510; United Arab Emirates, $10,480; Qatar, $8,320; Switzerland, $8,050; and Sweden, $7,880, the World Bank said in a report released Sunday.

Per capita income is figured by dividing a nation's gross national product, or total production of goods and services, by its population.

Qatar, an oil-producing nation, was a new addition to the World Bank list in 1975. The other nations listed above the United States all had higher incomes than the United States in 1974 as well.

Other nations with incomes near the United States were Denmark, $6,920; Canada, $6,650; Germany, $6,610; and Norway, $6,540. Denmark and Norway made substantial gains and could surpass the United States in the 1976 list, if the trend continues.

The World Bank cautioned, however, that its figures for 1975 were preliminary and based on tentative information in some cases.

The United States per capita income was up from $6,670 the year before, the bank said. However, the increase was not adjusted for the impact of inflation, which would make the gain somewhat less.

The bank said there were 19 nations with per capita incomes exceeding $5,000 in 1974 with combined total populations of 412 million.

By contrast, there were 75 nations with populations totaling 2.3 billion where income was less than $500. There were 33 nations with populations of more than 1.2 billion where income was less than $200.

The bank said significant changes in the relative value of currencies in recent years has caused the shift in income-ranking among developed nations.

For example, the German mark and Swiss franc have increased in value, while the French franc and British pound have decreased. The U.S. dollar has remained relatively stable for the past year, although it has lost ground against German and Swiss currencies.

While economies in much of the industrialized world expanded in dollar terms, there actually was a shrinking of over-all incomes in terms of real buying power, the bank said.

In 1974, the bank said, the U.S. per capita income in so-called real terms was down $170 from the year before, while income in Switzerland increased in real terms by $130 and in Sweden by $270.

Saudi Arabia, the world's largest oil exporter, had the largest real increase in income of any nation in 1974, up $560 to $2,830.

More Snow On The Way For Ohio

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The wizards who managed to conjure up a white Christmas for Ohio must be wishing hard for a snow-covered New Year as well.

A Page Of Opinion

Disavowal Of Controls

Memories are not so short that the lessons of wage and price controls imposed by the Nixon administration beginning in 1971 already are forgotten. Rather than curtail price and labor cost escalations over the long run, those controls when removed unleashed a rash of increases which helped to fuel the subsequent rise in inflation. Still, the idea continues to surface when politicians try to alleviate reactions rather than the causes of those reactions. During the recent presidential campaign, Jimmy Carter used bad advice in advocating "stand-by" wage and price controls. Small wonder, then, that some industries tried to jump the gun on controls after the election by placing on the record higher prices even when demand for their products was weak. Mr. Carter now has disavowed wage and price controls as a policy of his administration. "I believe in a free market system and always have," he said in a recent news conference, adding, "and I believe that the constant threat of wage and price controls is sometimes a stimulation for unwarranted increases in wages and prices, and I want to remove that threat completely from business and labor." That reassurance should remove much of the pressure the business community may have felt itself under and improve the psychological climate necessary for a more stable economy.

Hell's Kitchen

By JIM BISHOP

Hell's Kitchen was neither hell nor a kitchen. It was an Irish ghetto. The pale flats leaned shoulder to shoulder five stories high. Fat gossips leaned on pillows at front windows squinting at pedestrians. Out of this cauldron emerged lawyers and bookies, priests, paupers, physicians and gangsters.

There were neighborhoods within neighborhoods. Mick and Shamus, for example, lived on Tenth Avenue near 54th Street. When they hoisted themselves into the big rigs and hauled freight to Harrisburg and points west, they saw a good part of America.

At home, their terrain seldom spread beyond three blocks. Within that turf, Mick and Shamus knew almost everybody and could spot an alien face at a Fourth of July rally.

They knew who was busted, out of work, flush, hit a number, pregnant, graduating, engaged, in trouble with the cops. Forty-fourth and Tenth was only 10 streets away, but neither Mick nor Shamus knew anybody there. Most of all, they had never heard of Himself O'Houlihan.

Now Mick and Shamus were small and tough. They looked like overweight jockeys. Sober, they were as gentle as falling flakes of snow. Drunk they would take on a whole precinct and spot it three cops.

It was Mick who staged the christening. It was his fifth girl out of five and he didn't know whether to kick his wife in the behind or put her on a pedestal. He sprung for about $200 on a bash at Dinny's Shamrock Inn for whiskey, pitchers of cold beer and all the mussels everybody could eat.

The Irish have an expression at a good party: "With any kind of luck we'll never get home." The affair went on until one. By two, buddies slept on tables. Mick and Shamus glanced around with what sight they had left. Their wives had left. "Let's go somewhere," Shamus said.

They perspired in the cold. Suddenly, Tenth Avenue was all uphill. They walked and walked and walked. Mick reached into his pocket and pulled out a revolver. "You got any money?" he said. Shamus shook his head. Mick said they might have to stick up a joint to get a fifth of Jamison's.

At three a.m., the only place open was The Rose of Tralee. It was empty, except for Himself O'Houlihan. If Shamus stood on the Mick's shoulders, they'd reach Himself's chin.

O'Houlihan was adding up the night's receipts. It was pure pain. Himself had reached the fifth grade in St. Aloysius and had come to a screeching stop. He could add a column of figures, but he could never remember how much to carry. Or where to carry it.

"This," Mick growled, "is a stickup. We want a bottle of your best Jamison." "Hold it," Himself roared. "Can't you see I'm busy?" Mick was polite. He withdrew the gun. He and Shamus waited, staring red-eyed at the back mirrors and sniffing stale beer.

Shamus grabbed the gun. "This is a stickup," he shouted. "Get the whiskey or I'll blow your head off." Himself groaned. "There," he said, "you did it. I'll have to start over." He started.

Mick took the gun and stuck it under O'Houlihan's nose. The bartender reached into the ice and picked up a splintered baseball bat. "Keep quiet, dammit!" he roared, and flailed them with the bat. He caught each of them three times on heads, shoulders and arms before they had the decency to fall.

O'Houlihan finished his chore and called the cops. They thought Mick and Shamus had fallen off a roof. Himself apologized. An ambulance took the fallen warriors to Bellevue. X-rays depicted busted arms, heads, one shoulder and one wrist. They were

CIA Knew ITT Man Would Lie To Panel

WASHINGTON (AP) — The CIA knew that an executive of International Telephone & Telegraph Co. would give false testimony about his relationship with the spy agency when he was called before a Senate subcommittee investigating U.S. actions in Chile.

The ITT executive, Harold V. Hendrix, is cooperating with a federal grand jury that is probing a possible conspiracy involving CIA and ITT officials. The jury is investigating allegations of fraud and perjury arising from the officials' testimony about U.S. activities in Chile, it was learned.

Targets of the grand jury investigation are known to be former CIA Director Richard Helms and ITT chairman Harold Geneen.

Hendrix already has pleaded to a misdemeanor charge and received a suspended sentence for withholding information about his covert relationship with the CIA from the Senate subcommittee on multinational corporations.

A Justice Department lawyer told a federal court in Miami last month that Hendrix, former director of public relations for ITT in Latin America, informed the CIA in 1972 of "his intention to withhold from the committee the fact that he had been in contact with the CIA."

The attorney, Walter W. May, added that Hendrix "did indeed withhold the fact" when questioned under oath by the Senate subcommittee, which investigated efforts by the CIA and ITT in 1970 to block election of Marxist Salvador Allende as Chile's president. Lawrence Houston, who was general counsel of the CIA at the time, acknowledged in a telephone interview that the agency knew in advance of Hendrix's intention to testify falsely. "I thought we advised him from our point of view that there was no reason he couldn't say he had had a relationship with us," Houston said.

Asked why the CIA did not inform the subcommittee that Hendrix had in fact lied, Houston said the panel had been given documents that proved the inaccuracy of Hendrix's statements.

However, Jerome Levinson, chief counsel for the subcommittee, insisted that the CIA had not given any indication, either on or off the record, of its relationship with Hendrix.

May made his remarks Nov. 30 in the U.S. District Court for Southern Florida where Hendrix pleaded guilty to the misdemeanor charge of withholding information from Congress. The transcript of the proceedings makes clear that Hendrix was allowed to plead guilty to the misdemeanor charge and received a suspended sentence in return for his cooperation in the Justice Department's probe of possible perjury committed by CIA and ITT officials before the Senate panel.

Security Guard Gives Up Milk

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Akron police reported Thursday four burglars tried to milk Jessie Baughman for all he was worth — and milk was all they got.

Baughman, 40, a security guard, was confronted by the armed foursome as he carried a shopping bag from the east side discount store where he works, police said.

Apparently thinking the day's cash receipts were in the bag, the gunmen ordered Baughman to drop his gun and give them the bag.

Baughman complied and the men fled in a getaway car with what Baughman said was a half-gallon of milk.

Autolite Plans Big Expansion

FOSTORIA, Ohio (AP) — Bendix Autolite Corp. plans a $4 million expansion at its spark plug plant here to begin next year.

The enlargement was announced last week by William M. Agee, who was elevated recently to chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Bendix Corp., the parent firm.

Agee said the Fostoria project will be part of Bendix's largest capital improvements program in history.

Agee succeeded W. Michael Blumenthal, who resigned the posts to become secretary of treasury in the Carter Administration.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Monday, Dec. 27, the 362nd day of 1976. There are four days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1949, Queen Juliana of the Netherlands signed an act granting sovereignty to Indonesia after nearly 350 years of Dutch rule.

On this date: In 1944, in World War II, an American tank column smashed across the German bulge in Belgium and relieved U.S. troops who had been under siege at Bastogne.

In 1945, after World War II, the United States, Britain and the Soviet Union announced they would govern Korea as joint trustees for five years, then grant independence.

In 1973, Federal energy director William Simon announced that his agency had developed a stand-by system for gasoline rationing.

Ten years ago: A rally of 100,000 Red Guards in Peking denounced China's President Liu Shao-Chi.

Five years ago: It was announced that the U.S. military draft call would not be issued in January.

One year ago: China released a Soviet helicopter that had flown into Chinese territory.

Today's birthday: Entertainer Marlene Dietrich is 72.

Thought for today: You don't have to say "no." You can always take the matter under advisement. — Anonymous.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, General George Washington returned to his headquarters in Pennsylvania's Bucks County after capturing Trenton, N.J.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Is "bio-feedback" just another fad? Or does it have a legitimate value in medicine?

Mr. L. H. H., Tenn.

Dear Mr. H.:

The science of "bio-feedback" is a very concrete one. It now plays an important role in medicine.

Most functions of the body are under our direct control. We're able to move our arms, or walk, or eat at will.

There are other body functions that are under the control of the "autonomic" nervous system which controls our reflexes. The heart rate and respiration are examples of this.

"Bio-feedback" is a technique that uses electronic equipment to make possible some control over these reflexes, or "autonomic" systems.

With special training, some people can learn to alter the rate of their heart and the rate of respiration through bio-feedback. They can even control their blood pressure, and lower it through this means.

Brain waves, made with an electroencephalograph (EEG), have very special characteristics. With bio-feedback teaching, these waves can be altered.

This new technique is also proving to

New Feed Cuts Fat In Cattle

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State University researchers have produced beef and dairy products which are lower in fat by giving cattle special feed, but at least one scientist thinks it is more trouble than it's worth.

While some of the scientists believe they could be on the verge of a development which will help persons who need to lower the amount of cholesterol in their bloodstreams, Donald L. Palmquist, associate professor of animal science, disagrees.

The scientists gave the lower cholesterol meat and milk to coronary patients at the Cleveland Clinic and to a group of OSU students in a 50-day experiment.

Palmquist said the students showed a very small reduction in blood cholesterol. He added that there was no indication that the level would have dropped any more if they had continued eating the special food products.

Palmquist said the blood cholesterol reduction achieved by those eating the special products was about "what one would expect by substituting polyunsaturated vegetable oil" in their diet. He said there was no indication that the lowered cholesterol would have an effect on their susceptibility to heart attack.

He added that the research at OSU was developmental, not original. A group of Australian scientists already reached similar conclusions with experiments involving lamb products, he said.

While the lamb ended up tasting more like chicken, Palmquist said the research at OSU produced a beefy-tasting beef. Milk, he said, tasted like the butterfat had been replaced with vegetable oil and there were problems trying to ripen cheese from the lowfat milk.

Cherry Selected For Commission

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Robert L. Cherry, who won 12 athletic letters while at Wittenberg University, has been chosen to fill a seat on the City Commission to be vacated when John K. Mahoney moves into the state Senate next year.

Cherry's appointment was announced by the mayor recently.

Cherry, 35, has been director of students services at Clark Technical College since 1972.

Cherry is a native of Akron and came to Wittenberg in 1960 where he became one of the school's top athletes in history.

be of great value in the control of pain. And it is now being tried to reduce the frequency and severity of epileptic attacks, and for a variety of intestinal disturbances.

Perhaps its greatest value is in the muscular rehabilitation of patients who have suffered strokes.

Bio-feedback is exploring still other avenues of research, and is now accepted as an important contribution in medicine.

It must be emphasized, however, that this technique should be used only under the direct supervision of doctors and their personnel who are specially trained in this new field. The bio-feedback "toys" that can be purchased in the open market should not be tried for homemade medical treatment.

We think we have a happy household. The children are 17, 14 and 4. Our 14-year-old boy goes into a blue funk with the slightest provocation. Could this be just a phase of early adolescence?

Mrs. R. R., Mich.

Dear Mrs. R.:

It may be, but I would not accept this as a "passing phase" and allow time alone to be the "healing factor."

There may be conflicts and frustrations that you don't know about. Your boy should be under the guidance of a psychologist whose specialized tests can bring problem areas to light.

EDITOR'S NOTE: While The Herald encourages open comments from its readers, the opinions expressed are not necessarily those of the management. Letters to the editor must be signed and should be of 300 words or less.

Dear Editor:

One can never measure the goodness and the genuine desire of mankind to extend a helping hand until disaster strikes us. We are so grateful to all the good people, clubs, industries and churches who came to our aid so quickly when we lost everything by fire that destroyed our mobile home and contents. We lost everything in the blaze including all our Christmas gifts.

A Page Of Opinion

Disavowal Of Controls

Memories are not so short that the lessons of wage and price controls imposed by the Nixon administration beginning in 1971 already are forgotten. Rather than curtail price and labor cost escalations over the long run, those controls when removed unleashed a rash of increases which helped to fuel the subsequent rise in inflation.

Still, the idea continues to surface when politicians try to alleviate reactions rather than the causes of those reactions. During the recent presidential campaign, Jimmy Carter used bad advice in advocating "stand-by" wage and price controls. Small wonder, then, that some industries tried to jump the gun on controls after the election by placing on the record higher prices even when demand for their products was weak.

Mr. Carter now has disavowed wage and price controls as a policy of his administration. "I believe in a free market system and always have," he said in a recent news conference, adding, "and I believe that the constant threat of wage and price controls is sometimes a stimulation for unwarranted increases in wages and prices, and I want to remove that threat completely from business and labor."

That reassurance should remove much of the pressure the business community may have felt itself under and improve the psychological climate necessary for a more stable economy.

Hell's Kitchen

By JIM BISHOP

Hell's Kitchen was neither hell nor a kitchen. It was an Irish ghetto. The pale flats leaned shoulder to shoulder five stories high. Fat gossips leaned on pillows at front windows squinting at pedestrians. Out of this cauldron emerged lawyers and bookies, priests, paupers, physicians and gangsters.

There were neighborhoods within neighborhoods. Mick and Shamus, for example, lived on Tenth Avenue near 54th Street. When they hoisted themselves into the big rigs and hauled freight to Harrisburg and points west, they saw a good part of America.

At home, their terrain seldom spread beyond three blocks. Within that turf, Mick and Shamus knew almost everybody and could spot an alien face at a Fourth of July rally.

They knew who was busted, out of work, flush, hit a number, pregnant, graduating, engaged, in trouble with the cops. Forty-fourth and Tenth was only 10 streets away, but neither Mick nor Shamus knew anybody there. Most of all, they had never heard of Himself O'Houlihan.

Now Mick and Shamus were small and tough. They looked like overweight jockeys. Sober, they were as gentle as falling flakes of snow. Drunk they would take on a whole precinct and spot it three cops.

It was Mick who staged the christening. It was his fifth girl out of five and he didn't know whether to kick his wife in the behind or put her on a pedestal. He sprung for about $200 on a bash at Dinny's Shamrock Inn for whiskey, pitchers of cold beer and all the mussels everybody could eat.

The Irish have an expression at a good party: "With any kind of luck we'll never get home." The affair went on until one. By two, buddies slept on tables. Mick and Shamus glanced around with what sight they had left. Their wives had left. "Let's go somewhere," Shamus said.

They perspired in the cold. Suddenly, Tenth Avenue was all uphill. They walked and walked and walked. Mick reached into his pocket and pulled out a revolver. "You got any money?" he said. Shamus shook his head. Mick said they might have to stick up a joint to get a fifth of Jamison's.

At three a.m., the only place open was The Rose of Tralee. It was empty, except for Himself O'Houlihan. If Shamus stood on the Mick's shoulders, they'd reach Himself's chin.

O'Houlihan was adding up the night's receipts. It was pure pain. Himself had reached the fifth grade in St. Aloysius and had come to a screeching stop. He could add a column of figures, but he could never remember how much to carry. Or where to carry it.

"This," Mick growled, "is a stickup. We want a bottle of your best Jamison." "Hold it," Himself roared. "Can't you see I'm busy?" Mick was polite. He withdrew the gun. He and Shamus waited, staring red-eyed at the back mirrors and sniffing stale beer.

Shamus grabbed the gun. "This is a stickup," he shouted. "Get the whiskey or I'll blow your head off." Himself groaned. "There," he said, "you did it. I'll have to start over." He started.

Mick took the gun and stuck it under O'Houlihan's nose. The bartender reached into the ice and picked up a splintered baseball bat. "Keep quiet, dammit!" he roared, and flailed them with the bat. He caught each of them three times on heads, shoulders and arms before they had the decency to fall.

O'Houlihan finished his chore and called the cops. They thought Mick and Shamus had fallen off a roof. Himself apologized. An ambulance took the fallen warriors to Bellevue. X-rays depicted busted arms, heads, one shoulder and one wrist. They were basket cases.

In a week, they appeared before Magistrate Hyman Bushel. They looked like ads for Johnson & Johnson. The charge was armed robbery. The bailiff couldn't quiet the two wives. They wept. They wailed. They told the judge what they would do to Mick and Shamus if they ever got home.

Himself took the stand. He said it wasn't a stickup. He and his buddies — Mick and Shamus — had been arguing about how Ted Williams took a cut at a baseball and O'Houlihan got carried away. He apologized grandly to the cripples.

A policeman produced the gun. He apologized too because it was a wax candy and had melted in his pocket. The magistrate questioned all hands. Then he dismissed the case and burst into laughter.

Shamus glanced at his wife. "Before I go home," he said, "I demand police protection." It was a beautiful christening...

CIA Knew ITT Man Would Lie To Panel

WASHINGTON (AP) — The CIA knew that an executive of International Telephone & Telegraph Co. would give false testimony about his relationship with the spy agency when he was called before a Senate subcommittee investigating U.S. actions in Chile.

The ITT executive, Harold F. Hendrix, is cooperating with a federal grand jury that is probing a possible conspiracy involving CIA and ITT officials. The jury is investigating allegations of fraud and perjury arising from the officials' testimony about U.S. activities in Chile, it was learned.

Targets of the grand jury investigation are known to be former CIA Director Richard Helms and ITT chairman Harold Genseen.

Hendrix already has pleaded to a misdemeanor charge and received a suspended sentence for withholding information about his covert relationship with the CIA from the Senate subcommittee on multinational corporations.

A Justice Department lawyer told a federal court in Miami last month that Hendrix, former director of public relations for ITT in Latin America, informed the CIA in 1972 of "his intention to withhold from the committee the fact that he had been in contact with the CIA."

The attorney, Walter W. May, added that Hendrix "did indeed withhold the fact" when questioned under oath by the Senate subcommittee, which investigated efforts by the CIA and ITT in 1970 to block election of Marxist Salvador Allende as Chile's president.

Lawrence Houston, who was general counsel of the CIA at the time, acknowledged in a telephone interview that the agency knew in advance of Hendrix's intention to testify falsely. "I thought we advised him from our point of view that there was no reason he couldn't say he had had a relationship with us," Houston said.

Asked why the CIA did not inform the subcommittee that Hendrix had in fact lied, Houston said the panel had been given documents that proved the inaccuracy of Hendrix's statements.

However, Jerome Levinson, chief counsel for the subcommittee, insisted that the CIA had not given any indication, either on or off the record, of its relationship with Hendrix.

May made his remarks Nov. 30 in the U.S. District Court for Southern Florida where Hendrix pleaded guilty to the misdemeanor charge of withholding information from Congress. The transcript of the proceedings makes clear that Hendrix was allowed to plead guilty to the misdemeanor charge and received a suspended sentence in return for his cooperation in the Justice Department's probe of possible perjury committed by CIA and ITT officials before the Senate panel.

Security Guard Gives Up Milk

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Akron police reported Thursday four burglars tried to milk Jessie Baughman for all he was worth — and milk was all they got.

Baughman, 40, a security guard, was confronted by the armed foursome as he carried a shopping bag from the east side discount store where he works, police said.

Apparently thinking the day's cash receipts were in the bag, the gunmen ordered Baughman to drop his gun and give them the bag.

Baughman complied and the men fled in a getaway car with what Baughman said was a half-gallon of milk.

Autolite Plans Big Expansion

FOSTORIA, Ohio (AP) — Bendix Autolite Corp. plans a $4 million expansion at its spark plug plant here to begin next year.

The enlargement was announced last week by William M. Agee, who was elevated recently to chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Bendix Corp., the parent firm.

Agee said the Fostoria project will be part of Bendix's largest capital improvements program in history.

Agee succeeded W. Michael Blumenthal, who resigned the posts to become secretary of treasury in the Carter Administration.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Is "bio-feedback" just another fad? Or does it have a legitimate value in medicine?

Mr. L. H. H., Tenn.

Dear Mr. H.:

The science of "bio-feedback" is a very concrete one. It now plays an important role in medicine.

Most functions of the body are under our direct control. We're able to move our arms, or walk, or eat at will.

There are other body functions that are under the control of the "autonomic" nervous system which controls our reflexes. The heart rate and respiration are examples of this.

"Bio-feedback" is a technique that uses electronic equipment to make possible some control over these reflexes, or "autonomic" systems.

With special training, some people can learn to alter the rate of their heart and the rate of respiration through bio-feedback. They can even control their blood pressure, and lower it through this means.

Brain waves, made with an electroencephalograph (EEG), have very special characteristics. With bio-feedback teaching, these waves can be altered.

This new technique is also proving to be of great value in the control of pain. And it is now being tried to reduce the frequency and severity of epileptic attacks, and for a variety of intestinal disturbances.

Perhaps its greatest value is in the muscular rehabilitation of patients who have suffered strokes.

Bio-feedback is exploring still other avenues of research, and is now accepted as an important contribution in medicine.

It must be emphasized, however, that this technique should be used only under the direct supervision of doctors and their personnel who are specially trained in this new field. The bio-feedback "toys" that can be purchased in the open market should not be tried for homemade medical treatment.

We think we have a happy household. The children are 17, 14 and 4. Our 14-year-old boy goes into a blue funk with the slightest provocation. Could this be just a phase of early adolescence?

Mrs. R. R., Mich.

Dear Mrs. R.:

It may be, but I would not accept this as a "passing" phase and allow time alone to be the "healing factor."

There may be conflicts and frustrations that you don't know about. Your boy should be under the guidance of a psychologist whose specialized tests can bring problem areas to light.

Cherry Selected For Commission

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Robert L. Cherry, who won 12 athletic letters while at Wittenberg University, has been chosen to fill a seat on the City Commission to be vacated when John K. Mahoney moves into the state Senate next year.

Cherry's appointment was announced by the mayor recently.

Cherry, 35, has been director of students services at Clark Technical College since 1972.

Cherry is a native of Akron and came to Wittenberg in 1960 where he became one of the school's top athletes in history.

See Regular Farm Trade With China

WASHINGTON (AP) — The People's Republic of China has been an erratic buyer of American farm products, but two reports published by the Agriculture Department today indicate that U.S. officials are hopeful of some regular trade in the future.

Beginning in 1972, farm exports to China grew to a peak of $664.3 million in calendar 1974, including substantial shipments of wheat, corn, cotton and other commodities.

But those dropped to $76.7 million last year and involved only cotton, according to USDA records. This year's sales to China are less than $50 million and none is in prospect in 1977.

But senior USDA officials have been talking publicly for some time about China, its agricultural sector and how prospects for the more distant future may shape up.

Two of those reports were published today in the department's "Foreign Agriculture" weekly magazine, which circulates widely in the grain trade and among foreign countries.

Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Richard E. Bell, who oversees commodity and foreign programs in USDA, said that despite formidable basic problems China has done well in feeding its population—almost one-fourth of the world's from about one-sixth of the world's farmland.

But until recently, Bell said, China has had to rely heavily on imports of farm commodities, including massive quantities of grain.

"Between 1961 and 1970, the PRC (China) purchased more wheat than any other country, and since 1970 only the USSR and Japan have imported more wheat than China," Bell said.

"We do not know if the recent decline in purchases of wheat and other commodities, such as cotton, soybeans and vegetable oil, represent a downward trend or only a temporary pause," Bell said.

Political and economic factors within China weigh heavily on imports and those are "known only in Peking," Bell said.

"All of the commodities the PRC has imported in the past are commodities

OHS Announces New Schedule Of Operating Hours

A new schedule of operating hours for the memorials and museums of the Ohio Historical Society will take effect on January 1, 1977. The announcement was made today by Dr. Thomas Smith, Society director.

"We have attempted to create a schedule that will be more convenient to the public," Smith said. "Many of our sites will open earlier during the week and hours of operation have been expanded on Sundays for our major attractions." Smith noted that many of the changes in hours will not become effective until April when most of the Society's sites reopen after the winter.

Six sites which are currently open to the public are included in the new schedule of operation. The Armstrong Air and Space Museum, in Wapakoneta, and the National Road museum, near Zanesville, will be open from 9:30 to 5 Monday through Saturday and from 11 to 5 on Sunday. The Campus Martius and Ohio River Museums in Marietta will operate from 9:30 to 5 weekdays, and from 1 to 5 on Sunday.

The Ohio Village, in Columbus, will be open from 9:30 to 5 Wednesday through Sunday from September thru May, but will be open from 10 to 6 Memorial Day thru Labor Day for the tourist season. The Ohio Historical Center, adjacent to the village, will continue to operate from 9 to 5, Monday thru Saturday, but will expand its hours from 10 to 5 on Sunday.

A printed listing of the new schedule of hours for Society historic attractions is available by writing the Public Information Office, Ohio Historical Center, I-71 and 17th Avenue, Columbus, Ohio 43211.

Breakfasts Slated At Elyria Schools

ELYRIA, Ohio (AP) — Breakfast will be served by the Elyria City Schools beginning Jan. 10 at four elementary schools and one junior high school under a federal program.

The school board decided last week to add the breakfast program at Edison, Gates, Hamilton and Roosevelt elementary schools and Franklin Junior High School where the majority of students are now eligible for free or reduced price lunches. Cost of the breakfast will be 25 cents for students and 40 cents for staff members.

the United States can provide in large quantities and at competitive prices," Bell said. "The question is, will the Chinese require these products in the future?"

Bell said cotton is the most likely candidate for sustained sales to China in the future. As for grain, China has diversified purchases "apparently because it does not wish to be dependent upon a limited number of suppliers."

Advance Motor Vehicle Fees Distributed

State Auditor Thomas E. Ferguson's office reported today the sixth advance distribution of 1976 state motor vehicle registration fees totaling $2,002,676 to Ohio counties, cities, townships and villages. Pickaway County received $306.91.

Of the amount, $315,580 went to 60 counties and-or their municipalities that imposed an additional $5 levy on each set of license plates sold in 1976.

The counties received 47 per cent of the remainder, or $792,935.12, while the municipalities shared 34 per cent, or $573,612.64, on the basis of vehicle count.

Under the complicated formula by which motor vehicle license money is apportioned to the local political subdivisions, the counties received most of the funds, Ferguson said.

The distribution of license fees is based primarily on a formula involving the number of motor vehicles registered within a county or municipality. The big county-small county equalization factor, together with the number of county and township road miles, determine distribution.

The other $320,548.24 was dispensed to the counties and townships on a nine per cent county road mileage basis, a five per cent county equalization factor and a five per cent township road mileage basis.

Ferguson said under these three formulas the counties shared $151,838.64 on the nine per cent basis and $84,354.80 (each county receiving $969.59) in five per cent equalization funds. The 1,320 townships shared in a total of $84,354.80 based on the number of road miles within their borders.

Highway Upgrading Gains In Priority

By TOM DIEMER
Associated Press Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes is convinced that upgrading of Ohio 11, a potential "land canal," is a key to the economic development of Eastern Ohio.

"We will continue to construct interchanges and overpasses to make Ohio 11 a limited access highway," Rhodes said. "This will help create efficient transportation links with airports, major state parks, Lake Erie and Ohio River ports, and serve as a great attraction for satellite industries."

Foremost in the governor's mind, is to convince U.S. Steel that adequate transportation facilities will be available, if it decides to locate a multibillion dollar plant in Conneaut, at the northeastern corner of Ohio.

The nearly 100-mile long roadway connects the Lake Erie port of Ashtabula, just west of Conneaut, with East Liverpool on the Ohio River, bordering on the West Virginia panhandle. Both terminus points are also near the Pennsylvania border.

Because it has the potential to become one of the busiest state highways for freight traffic, one state transportation official called Ohio 11 a "land canal."

It backs up almost to the shoreline in Ashtabula, where trucks pick up taconite for runs to steel mills in Youngstown and other eastern Ohio cities.

From southern points, truckers pick up coal to haul north to sites in Ashtabula and Trumbull counties.

On tap for summer, is construction to eliminate at grade intersections in those two counties which slow trucks and can be hazardous to heavy highway commercial traffic. If warranted, the state will also apply heavy resurfacing to the roadway so it can handle more truck loads, a transportation spokesman says.

"Within two to seven miles of the Ohio 11 corridor, are five airports,"

Word 'Trooper' Becomes Official

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Members of the Highway Patrol are now called "troopers."

The new designation became official last week even though the patrol has used the word since October.

"Trooper" became official following a two-minute hearing by the Department of Administrative Services.

Rhodes notes, "Youngstown Municipal, Ashtabula and Columbiana counties and Youngstown Executive and Lansdowne."

"The primary link between the Ashtabula and Conneaut deep draft ports on Lake Erie and the Ohio River makes year round supply and distribution possible because the Ohio River, which unlike the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence Seaway, is open year round," Rhodes added.

Rhodes said Ohio 11 connected with east-west points via interstate routes 90, 80 and 76, and U.S. routes 6, 322, 422, 62 and 30. Ohio 11 is operated and maintained solely by the state.

See Regular Farm Trade With China

WASHINGTON (AP) — The People's Republic of China has been an erratic buyer of American farm products, but two reports published by the Agriculture Department today indicate that U.S. officials are hopeful of some regular trade in the future.

Beginning in 1972, farm exports to China grew to a peak of $664.3 million in calendar 1974, including substantial shipments of wheat, corn, cotton and other commodities.

But those dropped to $76.7 million last year and involved only cotton, according to USDA records. This year's sales to China are less than $50 million and none is in prospect in 1977.

But senior USDA officials have been talking publicly for some time about China, its agricultural sector and how prospects for the more distant future may shape up.

Two of those reports were published today in the department's "Foreign Agriculture" weekly magazine, which circulates widely in the grain trade and among foreign countries.

Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Richard E. Bell, who oversees commodity and foreign programs in USDA, said that despite formidable basic problems China has done well in feeding its population—almost one-fourth of the world's from about one-sixth of the world's farmland.

But until recently, Bell said, China has had to rely heavily on imports of farm commodities, including massive quantities of grain.

"Between 1961 and 1970, the PRC (China) purchased more wheat than any other country, and since 1970 only the USSR and Japan have imported more wheat than China," Bell said.

"We do not know if the recent decline in purchases of wheat and other commodities, such as cotton, soybeans and vegetable oil, represent a downward trend or only a temporary pause," Bell said.

Political and economic factors within China weigh heavily on imports and those are "known only in Peking," Bell said.

"All of the commodities the PRC has imported in the past are commodities

the United States can provide in large quantities and at competitive prices," Bell said. "The question is, will the Chinese require these products in the future?"

Bell said cotton is the most likely candidate for sustained sales to China in the future. As for grain, China has diversified purchases "apparently because it does not wish to be dependent upon a limited number of suppliers."

Advance Motor Vehicle Fees Distributed

State Auditor Thomas E. Ferguson's office reported today the sixth advance distribution of 1976 state motor vehicle registration fees totaling $2,002,676 to Ohio counties, cities, townships and villages. Pickaway County received $306.91.

Of the amount, $315,580 went to 60 counties and-or their municipalities that imposed an additional $5 levy on each set of license plates sold in 1976.

The counties received 47 per cent of the remainder, or $792,935.12, while the municipalities shared 34 per cent, or $573,612.64, on the basis of vehicle count.

Under the complicated formula by which motor vehicle license money is apportioned to the local political subdivisions, the counties received most of the funds, Ferguson said.

The distribution of license fees is based primarily on a formula involving the number of motor vehicles registered within a county or municipality. The big county-small county equalization factor, together with the number of county and township road miles, determine distribution.

The other $320,548.24 was dispensed to the counties and townships on a nine per cent county road mileage basis, a five per cent county equalization factor and a five per cent township road mileage basis.

Ferguson said under these three formulas the counties shared $151,838.64 on the nine per cent basis and $84,354.80 (each county receiving $969.59) in five per cent equalization funds. The 1,320 townships shared in a total of $84,354.80 based on the number of road miles within their borders.

Highway Upgrading Gains In Priority

By TOM DIEMER
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James A. Rhodes is convinced that upgrading of Ohio 11, a potential "land canal," is a key to the economic development of Eastern Ohio.

"We will continue to construct interchanges and overpasses to make Ohio 11 a limited access highway," Rhodes said. "This will help create efficient transportation links with airports, major state parks, Lake Erie and Ohio River ports, and serve as a great attraction for satellite industries."

Foremost in the governor's mind, is to convince U.S. Steel that adequate transportation facilities will be available, if it decides to locate a multibillion dollar plant in Conneaut, at the northeastern corner of Ohio.

The nearly 100-mile long roadway connects the Lake Erie port of Ashtabula, just west of Conneaut, with East Liverpool on the Ohio River, bordering on the West Virginia panhandle. Both terminus points are also near the Pennsylvania border.

Because it has the potential to become one of the busiest state highways for freight traffic, one state transportation official called Ohio 11 a "land canal."

It backs up almost to the shoreline in Ashtabula, where trucks pick up taconite for runs to steel mills in Youngstown and other eastern Ohio cities.

From southern points, truckers pick up coal to haul north to sites in Ashtabula and Trumbull counties.

On tap for summer, is construction to eliminate at grade intersections in those two counties which slow trucks and can be hazardous to heavy highway commercial traffic. If warranted, the state will also apply heavy resurfacing to the roadway so it can handle more truck loads, a transportation spokesman says.

"Within two to seven miles of the Ohio 11 corridor, are five airports,"

Word 'Trooper' Becomes Official

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Members of the Highway Patrol are now called "troopers."

The new designation became official last week even though the patrol has used the word since October.

"Trooper" became official following a two-minute hearing by the Department of Administrative Services.

Rhodes notes, "Youngstown Municipal, Ashtabula and Columbiana counties and Youngstown Executive and Lansdowne."

"The primary link between the Ashtabula and Conneaut deep draft ports on Lake Erie and the Ohio River makes year round supply and distribution possible because the Ohio River, which unlike the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence Seaway, is open year round," Rhodes added.

Rhodes said Ohio 11 connected with east-west points via interstate routes 90, 80 and 76, and U.S. routes 6, 322, 422, 62 and 30. Ohio 11 is operated and maintained solely by the state.

OHS Announces New Schedule Of Operating Hours

A new schedule of operating hours for the memorials and museums of the Ohio Historical Society will take effect on January 1, 1977. The announcement was made today by Dr. Thomas Smith, Society director.

"We have attempted to create a schedule that will be more convenient to the public," Smith said. "Many of our sites will open earlier during the week and hours of operation have been expanded on Sundays for our major attractions." Smith noted that many of the changes in hours will not become effective until April when most of the Society's sites reopen after the winter.

Six sites which are currently open to the public are included in the new schedule of operation. The Armstrong Air and Space Museum, in Wapakoneta, and the National Road museum, near Zanesville, will be open from 9:30 to 5 Monday through Saturday and from 11 to 5 on Sunday. The Campus Martius and Ohio River Museums in Marietta will operate from 9:30 to 5 weekdays, and from 1 to 5 on Sunday.

The Ohio Village, in Columbus, will be open from 9:30 to 5 Wednesday through Sunday from September thru May, but will be open from 10 to 6 Memorial Day thru Labor Day for the tourist season. The Ohio Historical Center, adjacent to the village, will continue to operate from 9 to 5, Monday thru Saturday, but will expand its hours from 10 to 5 on Sunday.

A printed listing of the new schedule of hours for Society historic attractions is available by writing the Public Information Office, Ohio Historical Center, 1-71 and 17th Avenue, Columbus, Ohio 43211.

Miss Carolyn Hutson, Timothy Allen Brigner Exchange Wedding Vows

MRS. TIMOTHY ALLEN BRIGNER

The United Methodist Church of Mt. Sterling was the setting for the wedding of Miss Carolyn Elyse Hutson and Mr. Timothy Allen Brigner. The Rev. Lynn C. Rainsberger officiated the double ring ceremony 2:30 p.m., Dec. 11, for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. Clinton Hutson, Route 1, London, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Brigner, Route 1, Mt. Sterling.

The church was decorated with altar vases holding arrangements of white pompon mums, purple chrysanthemums and baby's breath, and three branch candelabra. White satin bows marked the pews.

Roger Allen, vocalist, Miss Joyce Hutson, flutist, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Jean Bragg, organist, presented a program of music preceding the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her parents, selected for her wedding a formal length gown of white bridal satin with a chapel length train. The gown, made by her sister, Mrs. Bill Goode, featured pearl buttons from the high collar to the empire waistline and on the cuffs of the long puffed sleeves. The bride wore a Juliette cap with a lace veil, belonging to her sister, Mrs. Charles Neff. She carried a cascade bouquet of white and purple miniature carnations, baby's breath and two white roses, which were given to the mothers of the bride and bridegroom following the ceremony.

Maid of honor was Miss Melanie Passwater, and bridesmaids were Miss Gale Hutson, sister of the bride, and Miss Luann Beauman. Their floor length gowns were of royal purple velvet accented with lavender flower lace. Lavender ruffles highlighted the necklines and long fitted sleeves. Their headpieces were adorned with pink and lavender carnations, and they carried cascade bouquets of lavender and pink miniature carnations with snow crystal poms.

Flower girl, Miss Tara Williams, carried a basket of flower petals. Master Aaron Williams served as ring bearer, carrying a white satin pillow. Mr. Bruce Morgan performed the duties of best man. Ushers were Mr. Tom Brigner, brother of the bridegroom, and Mr. Art Dick.

The bride's mother was attired in a two piece smoke blue street length dress with a corsage of pink miniature carnations.

The mother of the bridegroom chose a pale grey street length dress with mauve and burgundy trimming. Her corsage was of dusty rose carnations.

A reception in the Fellowship Hall of the church immediately followed the ceremony. Hostesses were Miss Gay Hawk, Miss Joanne Lanigan, and Miss Beth Daniels. Miss Cindy Hildenbrand attended the guest book.

Following a wedding trip to Florida the couple resides at 334 W. Light St., Urbana.

The bride is a 1974 graduate of Madison Plains High School and is currently a senior at Urbana College.

The bridegroom, a graduate of Westfall High School, attended Miami University. He is employed by Nationwide Insurance Company in Columbus.

Christmas Party Held By Guild

A covered-dish dinner was enjoyed at noon with 15 members present. In the afternoon a brief business meeting was held. Christmas carols were sung and readings were presented by: Grace Streitenberger, Mary Shortridge and Marjorie Rinehart.

The home was decorated throughout in keeping with the Christmas season. Gifts were distributed from under the tree and mystery sister names were revealed.

Grocery Costs Continued '76 Rise

By JOE MCKNIGHT
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — If grocery costs around Ohio were stock market prices during 1976 you could have bought in at almost any time, sold in a month or two and made money. While there were some "down" months for prices, they were outdistanced by gainers, particularly at mid-year and toward the end of the annual period.

But the Ohio marketbasket is aimed at consumers. And the tug at the household pocketbook for 16 items at the grocery store was $1.16 heavier at the beginning of December 1976 than at the opening of the year.

The figure is drawn from a month-to-month check of prices by The Associated Press on the items normally found in supermarkets at 16 cities around Ohio.

As coffee drinkers know, that item was the most consistent price gainer throughout 1976. Coffee dropped two cents for a three-pound can last February compared to a month earlier, then became one of the hottest "stocks" on the chart. Cost of the three-pound can started at $4.36 in January, rose to $4.38 in March and continued a steady soar to $6.61 in December. The average price for the past 12 months was $5.23, 89 cents above the year's low and $1.38 below the peak.

With the announced intention of at least one major brand to raise prices another 20 cents a pound, coffee could be a moneymaker for investors on the real stock market.

Month-to-month price averages on the items checked declined over the previous month five times during the year.

Prices declined by less than one per cent in January, February and August. Two of the seven monthly increases were less than one per cent — in July and October.

Biggest percentage increase came in June, 3.6 per cent, and May, 2 per cent. Sharpest drops were 2 per cent recorded in both April and September.

Meat prices were lower at the end of the year than at the start but the combined difference was well below the year's $2.27 increase in that three pounds of coffee.

A one-pound loaf of store brand bread fluctuated in the narrowest price range of all items, ranging from 32 cents in May and December, to 35 cents in four different months. Average price for the year was 33.7 cents.

Next came a 14½-ounce pack of chocolate chip cookies. Most often it was reported at 99 cents and that was the average price in both January and November. It reached the year's average low of 95.5 cents in December. Over the year it averaged 97.5 cents.

Average price on the 16 items checked in reporting cities last January was $18.45, down .8 per cent from the previous December. This fell .6 per cent, to $18.34, in February.

The average in March was $18.64, up one per cent. April's cost of $18.19 was the year's low. In May, the average was $18.66; June $19.34, and July $19.51. In August, the average dropped to $19.49 and then to $19.05 in September.

In October, the average was $19.17; November, $19.39 and on December hit the year's high of $19.61.

The top price for hamburger meat came in June at 88 cents per pound and the lowest was 74 cents on Dec. 1. Average for the year was 81 cents.

Chuck roast started the year at the top, an average of $1.26 per pound, fluctuated at mostly above $1 until September when it reached the year's low average of 97 cents. Chuck averaged $1.04 at the end of November and for the year was $1.05. Price spread over the year was 30 cents.

One pound of center cut pork chops also had a 30-cent spread, from a high average of $1.89 in March and July to a low of $1.59 at the end of November. Average for the year was $1.63.

Whole frying chicken averaged 59 cents per pound for the year, ranging from a high of 63 cents in July to a low of 55 cents Dec. 1.

Milk, margarine and toilet tissue each had a price range of 7 cents. A half-gallon of whole milk was 75 cents on Jan. 1, 1976 and that was the average for the year. It reached a high of 79 cents in October and December, and a low of 72 cents in November.

A pound of margarine in sticks, a frequent loss-leader, experienced a general drop in price over the year. It started at 59 cents per pound in January and that turned out to be high for 1976, declining to 52 cents in October and December. For the year the average was 55 cents per pound.

Peanut butter, a household staple, averaged 69 cents for a 12-ounce container over the year. It ranged from a low of 67 cents in March to a high of 71.5 cents in December.

Prices of eggs and potatoes are both influenced by seasons. Egg prices reached a low point in early summer and potatoes in late fall.

A dozen medium-white eggs averaged 75 cents for the year and ranged from 88 cents in January to 65 cents in May.

A 10-pound sack of white potatoes reached its highest average price of $1.93 in June and the lowest of $1.12 in December.

Sugar, which skyrocketed in 1975, settled back during 1976 and averaged $1.15 for the year. A five-pound bag of granulated declined steadily through the year from a top of $1.23 in January 1976 to a low average of $1.02 on Dec. 1.

A 49-ounce container of name-brand detergent showed mixed prices through the year. It ranged mostly from $1.30 to $1.41, except for July when it rose to $1.52. It closed the year at an average of 1.37.

A 12-ounce container of frozen orange juice sold in a generally narrow price range of five cents, from a high of 69 cents in April to a low of 64 cents in September, November and December. The average for the year was 66 cents, same as the price last January.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Send Married Lover Home To Nest

DEAR ABBY: A year ago I fell in love with a married man who has three children. We didn't plan for this to happen, it just did. It's not one of those fly-by-night affairs; we genuinely love each other.

Lately the subject of leaving his wife keeps coming up. He is all for it, but I'm not so sure. I would love to marry him, but I don't want to cause his family any grief. From what he's told me, his wife is a lovely person and a good mother, and I know he's crazy about his children.

I feel like a homewrecker, but I don't want to lose him. I had almost given up on the male species before I met him. Abby, he is by far the sweetest and most loving man I've ever known, and I'm sure he really loves me.

Any suggestions you might have would be greatly appreciated. I'm terribly mixed up and don't know what to do.

FEELING GUILTY

DEAR FEELING: Send your married man home to his wife and children and tell him to stay there.

You can't build happiness on the misery of others, and that's what you'd be doing were you to allow him to leave his wife and family for you. And by the way, nobody "falls in love." They dig their way into it.

DEAR ABBY: How do you feel about a male teacher in a public school telling his sixth grade students dirty jokes? I don't mean cute little off-color suggestive stories; I mean jokes in which he used vulgar four-letter words.

My 11-year-old sister came home from school one day with one such joke that her teacher had told the class. She said the kids thought it was "neat" that their teacher treated them in such an "adult" manner. He also said, "And if you tell anyone I've told you these jokes I won't tell you anymore."

My mother and I are very angry with this teacher and wonder what action we should take, if any.

CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED: Get in touch with the teacher and tell him what you've heard. If he denies it, you may need supporting evidence from at least one other student. The offending teacher should then be reported to the principal.

DEAR ABBY: You wrote: "Hitting a child hard enough to hurt him will only teach the child that violence is the answer to all conflicts."

Your words caused me to recall a quote from the late Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.'s book, "Why Can't We Wait?"

"Man was born into barbarism. He becomes endowed with a conscience. And he has now reached the day when violence toward another human being must become as abhorrent as eating another's flesh."

ARTHUR H. PRINCE

DEAR ARTHUR: A beautiful quote from a "Prince" by a "King." Thanks for sharing.

Miss Carolyn Hutson, Timothy Allen Brigner Exchange Wedding Vows

MRS. TIMOTHY ALLEN BRIGNER

The United Methodist Church of Mt. Sterling was the setting for the wedding of Miss Carolyn Elyse Hutson and Mr. Timothy Allen Brigner. The Rev. Lynn C. Rainsberger officiated the double ring ceremony 2:30 p.m., Dec. 11, for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. Clinton Hutson, Route 1, London, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Brigner, Route 1, Mt. Sterling.

The church was decorated with altar vases holding arrangements of white pompon mums, purple chrysanthemums and baby's breath, and three branch candelabra. White satin bows marked the pews.

Roger Allen, vocalist, Miss Joyce Hutson, flutist, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Jean Bragg, organist, presented a program of music preceding the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her parents, selected for her wedding a formal length gown of white bridal satin with a chapel length train. The gown, made by her sister, Mrs. Bill Goode, featured pearl buttons from the high collar to the empire waistline and on the cuffs of the long puffed sleeves. The bride wore a Juliette cap with a lace veil, belonging to her sister, Mrs. Charles Neff. She carried a cascade bouquet of white and purple miniature carnations, baby's breath and two white roses, which were given to the mothers of the bride and bridegroom following the ceremony.

Maid of honor was Miss Melanie Passwater, and bridesmaids were Miss Gale Hutson, sister of the bride, and Miss Luann Beauman. Their floor length gowns were of royal purple velvet accented with lavender flower lace. Lavender ruffles highlighted the necklines and long fitted sleeves. Their headpieces were adorned with pink and lavender carnations, and they carried cascade bouquets of lavender and pink miniature carnations with snow crystal poms.

Flower girl, Miss Tara Williams, carried a basket of flower petals. Master Aaron Williams served as ring bearer, carrying a white satin pillow.

Mr. Bruce Morgan performed the duties of best man. Ushers were Mr. Tom Brigner, brother of the bridegroom, and Mr. Art Dick.

The bride's mother was attired in a two piece smoke blue street length dress with a corsage of pink miniature carnations.

The mother of the bridegroom chose a pale grey street length dress with mauve and burgundy trimming. Her corsage was of dusty rose carnations.

A reception in the Fellowship Hall of the church immediately followed the ceremony. Hostesses were Miss Gay Hawk, Miss Joanne Lanigan, and Miss Beth Daniels. Miss Cindy Hildenbrand attended the guest book.

Following a wedding trip to Florida the couple resides at 334 W. Light St., Urbana.

The bride is a 1974 graduate of Madison Plains High School and is currently a senior at Urbana College.

The bridegroom, a graduate of Westfall High School, attended Miami University. He is employed by Nationwide Insurance Company in Columbus.

Grocery Costs Continued '76 Rise

By JOE MCKNIGHT
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — If grocery costs around Ohio were stock market prices during 1976 you could have bought in at almost any time, sold in a month or two and made money.

While there were some "down" months for prices, they were outdistanced by gainers, particularly at mid-year and toward the end of the annual period.

But the Ohio marketbasket is aimed at consumers. And the tug at the household pocketbook for 16 items at the grocery store was $1.16 heavier at the beginning of December 1976 than at the opening of the year.

The figure is drawn from a month-to-month check of prices by The Associated Press on the items normally found in supermarkets at 16 cities around Ohio.

As coffee drinkers know, that item was the most consistent price gainer throughout 1976. Coffee dropped two cents for a three-pound can last February compared to a month earlier, then became one of the hottest "stocks" on the chart. Assembly Pumped Out Variety Of 1976 Laws

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Laws affecting Ohioans' everyday lives underwent significant changes during 1976, despite the partisan atmosphere that hung over their politically deadlocked state government.

Republican Gov. James A. Rhodes and the Democrat-controlled Senate and House fought to a draw on several big issues. The same issues likely will return in 1977 now that Democrats have the votes to override the 67-year-old governor's vetoes.

Some new laws, nevertheless, reflect the legislature's Democratic leanings and the influence of organized labor. Among them are bills that hiked the minimum wage to $1.90 an hour now, to $2.30 by the end of 1978, and require prevailing wages to be paid by contractors on buildings which will be leased or rented to state or local governments.

Prevailing wages are the average of those paid for union labor within designated areas defined by the U.S. Labor Department.

Rhodes signed those measures into law, but stopped a heavily lobbied bill that would establish collective bargaining procedures for and permit strikes by more than 500,000 public employees throughout the state. That proposal will return next year.

Otherwise, acting on a multitude of bills covering everything from bingo to puppy dogs to the individual rights of citizens, the lawmakers revised the state's mine safety laws, set regulations for emergency medical technicians (paramedics), authorized self service gasoline stations effective Jan. 1, and revamped Ohio's embattled and scandal-ridden workmen's compensation program.

In the area of taxation, the legislature enacted sweeping revisions in Ohio's real estate tax laws, seeking to protect homeowners from built-in increases that result from inflationary rises in property values.

The voluminous bill was not heralded as one that reduced anyone's taxes, but sponsors claim it will hedge against future hikes caused by inflation.

Rhodes, who let the bill become law without his signature, claimed it penalized Ohio's industrial employers by increasing by more than $35 million a year their liabilities for taxes on inventories and equipment.

Much of the struggle between the legislature and Rhodes was over the governor's claim that the lawmakers failed to head off an exodus of Ohio's industry to other states, particularly the southern "Sunbelt" where taxes are more favorable to industry.

That argument continues. In the field of consumerism, the legislature moved to halt discrimination in credit on the basis of age, required health insurance programs such as Blue Cross to justify rate increases, strengthened the regulation of credit unions, and updated laws that regulate barber and beautician professions.

The lawmakers required state licensing of two other consumer-oriented professions for the first time — occupational therapists and heating, electrical, and air conditioning contractors.

Rhodes vetoed some consumer bills which Democrats say they will send to his desk again next year. These would protect homeowners against unscrupulous home repair and construction contractors, and make retailers responsible for defective merchandise even after sale of a time installment contract to a bank or finance company.

The governor also vetoed a bill that would have required supermarkets switching to a new computer checkout system to continue to stamp prices on individual items. The new system involves putting the arabic numeral prices on shelves, and stamping coded lines on products which are scanned electronically at the cash register.

Among the new laws which took effect during 1976 or will soon take effect are those that require veterinarian certification that a puppy dog is healthy to be shipped, regulate bingo games for charitable purposes, and seek to outlaw sale of products used by glue-sniffing youngsters, particularly in big city schools.

New laws taking effect in 1977 include those under which the state will compensate victims of crime for actual monetary losses up to $50,000, and which prohibit state or local governments from releasing information they legitimately hold about private citizens.

Such types of information include disease, birth and death data, marriage and divorce, and education. The law contains exceptions under which the state might consider requests for such information legitimate and in the public interest. Ohio is the third state to have such a privacy law.

Education appropriations were not considered this year — the second of the state's two-year fiscal period — but senators and representatives heard complaints all around the state that Ohio's more than 600 public school districts were not getting enough money.

The fiscal formula for distributing state aid is based substantially on local tax effort, and the highly publicized school closings in recent weeks were attributed in part to defeated local tax levies.

Some school districts, such as Toledo which closed its doors Dec. 3 until the beginning of 1977, haven't been able to get a local operating levy approved in eight years, during which time their state appropriations increased by about 400 per cent, some lawmakers noted.

School funding will be the hottest issue next year as lawmakers attempt to put together the state's 1977-1979 budget.

In various other categories, here are some other 1976 enactments.

—Education: Established due process rights for students, as a result of a U.S. Supreme Court decision, in expulsion and suspension proceedings, required educational opportunities by 1978 for all handicapped pupils, authorized assault absences for teachers, prohibited release of certain information kept about students, permitted school boards to buy accident insurance for athletes, mandated liability insurance for administrators and employees.

In higher education, Ohioans 65 and older were permitted to audit university classes tuition free, without receiving credit; the University of Cincinnati became a fully-affiliated state institution, and professors with seven years' tenure were made eligible for a full year of sabbatical leave, with pay.

—Elections: Repealed an old law that prohibited the sale or gift of liquor on election days, outlawed so-called campaign dirty tricks, and implemented a constitutional amendment that sought to do away with — but fell somewhat short — what became known as Ohio's "bedsheet ballot" in presidential election years.

—Energy and Environment: Replaced Ohio's utility ratemaking formula with one which allegedly will give utility users a better break in the future, extended protection to Indian mounds, earmarked 75 per cent of severance tax revenues for strip mine reclamation, prohibited special short term purchases of natural gas for industry from being reflected in residential bills, restricted pass-through by utilities of their own fuel cost hikes to home customers, and set restrictions for shutoffs of utility services during winter months.

—Health and Mental Health: Allowed state hospitals to buy liability insurance for medical staff, permitted designation in public places of no-smoking areas, except in restaurants; provided a "bill of rights" for mental patients, required mental hospitals to meet national standards by 1969 and increased funding, required hospitals to offer tests for uterine cancer in women 18 or over, provided for the posting of prescription drug prices in pharmacies and drug stores, and mandated public restrooms with pay toilets to also provide free facilities.

—Highways and Highway Safety: Extended the life of temporary vehicle tags from 20 to 30 days, required mass transit vehicles transporting school children to undergo safety inspections, mandated that the sale prices of used vehicles be listed in title certificates.

—Public Officials: Increased retirement benefits, raised pay of elected county employees, and loosened certain requirements in code of ethics laws, said to have been discriminatory against attorneys.

FCC License Fees Ruled Exorbitant

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hang on to that $4, good buddy. You can get your CB radio license without it.

The Federal Communications Commission doesn't want it, even if the instructions with your new Christmas CB radio say to send it in for your citizens' band radio license. Those instructions are out of date.

The commission announced Wednesday that it had voted 7 to 0 to suspend all of its fee collections, including those from CB radio operators.

The suspension will give the FCC time to consider the impact of a U.S. Court of Appeals decision last week that said the FCC collects too much money in fees. The court said the FCC has to demonstrate that each fee it collects is directly related to the cost of preparing the license.

FCC officials said the suspension does not affect the need for CB fans and other broadcasters to get licenses before they go on the air. They just won't have to pay for them.

And there is a chance they may never have to pay for them, since many congressmen had been urging the FCC to do away with CB license fees before the court ruling.

Thomas P. Campbell, manager of the FCC's Finance Division, said no decision has been made on the question of refunds for those who have paid for their licenses. The court did not order refunds, but conceivably a license holder could sue to recover his money. Campbell said the FCC will have to consider the legal and administrative problems involved in deciding if the FCC should continue collecting fees. He added that a large volume of inquiries from people seeking small refunds would not help expedite the decision.

The major individual financial beneficiaries of the decision will be commercial broadcasters, who were the plaintiffs in the suit that overturned the commission's fee system.

The FCC estimates that of the $34.4 million in fees it collected last year from all the communications licensees it monitors, $6.2 million came from commercial broadcasters. The rest comes from other users, like CB enthusiasts and telephone companies.

Secretarial Wants

NEW YORK (AP) — What do secretaries want most from their employers?

International Management reports that in order of importance it's praise, attentiveness and small gifts, such as flowers and chocolates.

The magazine cites a survey taken of 153 secretaries in West Germany.

Assembly Pumped Out Variety Of 1976 Laws

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Laws affecting Ohioans' everyday lives underwent significant changes during 1976, despite the partisan atmosphere that hung over their politically deadlocked state government.

Republican Gov. James A. Rhodes and the Democrat-controlled Senate and House fought to a draw on several big issues. The same issues likely will return in 1977 now that Democrats have the votes to override the 67-year-old governor's vetoes.

Some new laws, nevertheless, reflect the legislature's Democratic leanings and the influence of organized labor. Among them are bills that hiked the minimum wage to $1.90 an hour now, to $2.30 by the end of 1978, and require prevailing wages to be paid by contractors on buildings which will be leased or rented to state or local governments.

Prevailing wages are the average of those paid for union labor within designated areas defined by the U.S. Labor Department.

Rhodes signed those measures into law, but stopped a heavily lobbied bill that would establish collective bargaining procedures for and permit strikes by more than 500,000 public employees throughout the state. That proposal will return next year.

Otherwise, acting on a multitude of bills covering everything from bingo to puppy dogs to the individual rights of citizens, the lawmakers revised the state's mine safety laws, set regulations for emergency medical technicians (paramedics), authorized self service gasoline stations effective Jan. 1, and revamped Ohio's embattled and scandal-ridden workmen's compensation program.

In the area of taxation, the legislature enacted sweeping revisions in Ohio's real estate tax laws, seeking to protect homeowners from built-in increases that result from inflationary rises in property values.

The voluminous bill was not heralded as one that reduced anyone's taxes, but sponsors claim it will hedge against future hikes caused by inflation.

Rhodes, who let the bill become law without his signature, claimed it penalized Ohio's industrial employers by increasing by more than $35 million a year their liabilities for taxes on inventories and equipment.

Much of the struggle between the legislature and Rhodes was over the governor's claim that the lawmakers failed to head off an exodus of Ohio's industry to other states, particularly the southern "Sunbelt" where taxes are more favorable to industry.

That argument continues.

In the field of consumerism, the legislature moved to halt discrimination in credit on the basis of age, required health insurance programs such as Blue Cross to justify rate increases, strengthened the regulation of credit unions, and updated laws that regulate barber and beautician professions.

The lawmakers required state licensing of two other consumer-oriented professions for the first time — occupational therapists and heating, electrical, and air conditioning contractors.

Rhodes vetoed some consumer bills which Democrats say they will send to his desk again next year. These would protect homeowners against unscrupulous home repair and construction contractors, and make retailers responsible for defective merchandise even after sale of a time installment contract to a bank or finance company.

The governor also vetoed a bill that would have required supermarkets switching to a new computer checkout system to continue to stamp prices on individual items. The new system involves putting the arabic numeral prices on shelves, and stamping coded lines on products which are scanned electronically at the cash register.

Among the new laws which took effect during 1976 or will soon take effect are those that require veterinarian certification that a puppy dog is healthy to be shipped, regulate bingo games for charitable purposes, and seek to outlaw sale of products used by glue-sniffing youngsters, particularly in big city schools.

New laws taking effect in 1977 include those under which the state will compensate victims of crime for actual monetary losses up to $50,000, and which prohibit state or local governments from releasing information they legitimately hold about private citizens.

Such types of information include disease, birth and death data, marriage and divorce, and education. The law contains exceptions under which the state might consider requests for such information legitimate and in the public interest. Ohio is the third state to have such a privacy law.

Education appropriations were not considered this year — the second of the state's two-year fiscal period — but senators and representatives heard complaints all around the state that Ohio's more than 600 public school districts were not getting enough money.

The fiscal formula for distributing state aid is based substantially on local tax effort, and the highly publicized school closings in recent weeks were attributed in part to defeated local tax levies.

Some school districts, such as Toledo which closed its doors Dec. 3 until the beginning of 1977, haven't been able to get a local operating levy approved in eight years, during which time their state appropriations increased by about 400 per cent, some lawmakers noted.

School funding will be the hottest issue next year as lawmakers attempt to put together the state's 1977-1979 budget.

In various other categories, here are some other 1976 enactments.

—Education: Established due process rights for students, as a result of a U.S. Supreme Court decision, in expulsion and suspension proceedings, required educational opportunities by 1978 for all handicapped pupils, authorized assault absences for teachers, prohibited release of certain information kept about students, permitted school boards to buy accident insurance for athletes, mandated liability insurance for administrators and employees.

In higher education, Ohioans 65 and older were permitted to audit university classes tuition free, without receiving credit; the University of Cincinnati became a fully-affiliated state institution, and professors with seven years' tenure were made eligible for a full year of sabbatical leave, with pay.

—Elections: Repealed an old law that prohibited the sale or gift of liquor on election days, outlawed so-called campaign dirty tricks, and implemented a constitutional amendment that sought to do away with — but fell somewhat short — what became known as Ohio's "bedsheet ballot" in presidential election years.

—Energy and Environment: Replaced Ohio's utility ratemaking formula with one which allegedly will give utility users a better break in the future, extended protection to Indian mounds, earmarked 75 per cent of severance tax revenues for strip mine reclamation, prohibited special short term purchases of natural gas for industry from being reflected in residential bills, restricted pass-through by utilities of their own fuel cost hikes to home customers, and set restrictions for shutoffs of utility services during winter months.

—Health and Mental Health: Allowed state hospitals to buy liability insurance for medical staff, permitted designation in public places of no-smoking areas, except in restaurants; provided a "bill of rights" for mental patients, required mental hospitals to meet national standards by 1969 and increased funding, required hospitals to offer tests for uterine cancer in women 18 or over, provided for the posting of prescription drug prices in pharmacies and drug stores, and mandated public restrooms with pay toilets to also provide free facilities.

—Highways and Highway Safety: Extended the life of temporary vehicle tags from 20 to 30 days, required mass transit vehicles transporting school children to undergo safety inspections, mandated that the sale prices of used vehicles be listed in title certificates.

—Public Officials: Increased retirement benefits, raised pay of elected county employees, and loosened certain requirements in code of ethics laws, said to have been discriminatory against attorneys.

FCC License Fees Ruled Exorbitant

WASHINGTON (AP) — Hang on to that $4, good buddy. You can get your CB radio license without it.

The Federal Communications Commission doesn't want it, even if the instructions with your new Christmas CB radio say to send it in for your citizens' band radio license. Those instructions are out of date.

The commission announced Wednesday that it had voted 7 to 0 to suspend all of its fee collections, including those from CB radio operators.

The suspension will give the FCC time to consider the impact of a U.S. Court of Appeals decision last week that said the FCC collects too much money in fees. The court said the FCC has to demonstrate that each fee it collects is directly related to the cost of preparing the license.

FCC officials said the suspension does not affect the need for CB fans and other broadcasters to get licenses before they go on the air. They just won't have to pay for them.

And there is a chance they may never have to pay for them, since many congressmen had been urging the FCC to do away with CB license fees before the court ruling.

Thomas P. Campbell, manager of the FCC's Finance Division, said no decision has been made on the question of refunds for those who have paid for their licenses. The court did not order refunds, but conceivably a license holder could sue to recover his money.

Campbell said the FCC will have to consider the legal and administrative problems involved in deciding if the FCC should continue collecting fees. He added that a large volume of inquiries from people seeking small refunds would not help expedite the decision.

The major individual financial beneficiaries of the decision will be commercial broadcasters, who were the plaintiffs in the suit that overturned the commission's fee system.

The FCC estimates that of the $34.4 million in fees it collected last year from all the communications licensees it monitors, $6.2 million came from commercial broadcasters. The rest comes from other users, like CB enthusiasts and telephone companies.

Woman Takes Reins As Sheriff

By STRAT DOUTHAT
Associated Press Writer
ST. CLAIRSVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Eminently qualified, Kathy Crumbley will become Ohio's first woman sheriff this week, ready to take charge of her deputies, the jail and her home.

As a former deputy and graduate of the Ohio Peace Officer's Training Course, she would seem to have the background and experience to handle the job.

But she also brings 275 pounds, a .357 magnum, and can snap a two-inch board like a toothpick.

Voters in Belmont County decided last month the 30-year-old strawberry blonde should be their top law enforcement officer.

"According to the National Sheriff's Association, I'm the first woman ever elected to the office in this state and the third in the nation," Mrs. Crumbley said one recent afternoon after lunch. "In fact, I'll be the only woman sheriff in the country when I'm sworn in at the courthouse here Wednesday."

Lunch was a heaping plate of ham and beef with macaroni and a gelatin salad on the side.

"It takes a lot of food to keep a body like this going," she said with a laugh. "I was practicing jujitsu for a time, but I was becoming too muscular. It's one thing to be as big as I am and another to go around looking like a bear."

At six-foot, Mrs. Crumbley carries her weight well. She looked trim in a tailored, brown leisure suit which she admittedly is itching to trade for a sheriff's uniform.

"I'll actually take office Jan. 2," she added, pushing away the empty plate. "The job pays $18,000 a year and I'll have 13 regular deputies and four federally-funded employees as well as an auxiliary unit that includes a 10-man mounted patrol for such things as parades and a county fair."

Located in Ohio's eastern section and bordering the Ohio River, Belmont County consists of 65 square miles and has 82,500 residents.

"Come Jan. 2 they'll all belong to me," she said. "I'll have the responsibility to keep the peace and run the jail. My motto is: 'To serve and protect.'"

A resident of nearby Shadyside, the sheriff-elect lives with her husband Jim "Brutus" Crumbley and their son. A coal miner, Brutus is a man she looks up to.

He's 6-foot-4 and weighs 340. "I lost three babies before our son was born. My husband and I really wanted to see what two huge people like us would produce and you should see our boy. He's only 21 months and he's already as big as a first grader," Mrs. Crumbley said.

Crumbley will keep on mining while his sheriff-wife keeps the peace.

"And it will really keep me hopping to run the house, the jail and the sheriff's office," she said. "But I'm looking forward to it. I have a lot of ideas and I'm used to plowing new ground. I was the county's first woman deputy and after I quit that job, I became the first woman ever to serve as deputy director of Belmont County's board of elections."

Public indignation ran high some years ago when children began losing their lives in abandoned refrigerators. Couldn't the owners of those refrigerators be punished for having left them in such hazardous condition?

The answer was no, because until that time there had been no law on the subject. And new laws cannot be applied to actions that have occurred in the past.

This rule against "ex post facto" laws is laid down in Article I of the Constitution. Based on elementary fairness, it applies not only to the creation of new crimes but also to the increasing of punishment for an existing crime. Thus:

Harris pulled off a fraudulent land deal. At the time, the prescribed punishment for his offense was two years in prison. But by the time he was caught and brought to trial, the legislature had upped the penalty to four years.

The judge tried to impose a four-year sentence, but a higher court ruled that he could not lawfully do so. The court felt Harris was entitled to know, at the time he committed the fraud, how seriously it was looked upon by society.

However, the rule applies only in the field of criminal law. Civil disabilities may indeed work retroactively. For example:

A new law declared that no one who had ever been convicted of a felony could get a license to practice medicine. A former burglar, hoping to become a doctor, challenged the law as ex post facto.

But the court rejected his challenge, saying the new law was not a punishment but merely a means of maintaining high ethical standards in the medical profession.

"If a state may require good character (for) the practice of medicine," said the court, "it may rightfully determine what shall be the evidence of that character."

Terry Atwood, 22, of Springdale, died Sunday from a single gunshot wound to the face, deputies reported.

Atwood and several members of the Iron Horsemen were involved in an "altercation" at a local residence, deputies said. Deputies said Atwood was taken back to the motorcycle club's clubhouse where he was pronounced dead by police and life squad units.

Charged in connection with the shooting was Herman Wesley Oswalt, 30, of Lowell, Ind., whom deputies said was a member of the Invaders Motorcycle Club.

Samuel Carpenter of Cincinnati was charged with obstructing justice in connection with the incident.

Hotel Strike Continues In Florida

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — As thousands of guests served their own food, carried their own bags and made their own beds at six hotels, a hotel workers union pledged to continue and expand its strike.

Herbert "Pinky" Schiffman, president of the 11,000-member Hotel, Motel and Restaurant Employees Union Local 355, said the strike, which began Saturday, would spread today to more hotels. He declined to say which ones.

Picket lines were up at the Doral Country Club, the Carillon, the Deauville, the Eden Roc, the Shelbourne and the Doral Beach. All are on Miami Beach's famed Collins Avenue except the Doral, which is in northwest Miami.

The hotels would not say how many guests were being inconvenienced, but most are close to capacity at the holidays.

Edwin Dean, head of the 40-member Southern Florida Hotel and Motel Association, said late Sunday that negotiations were deadlocked over wages, benefits and tips.

He said that service was hurt by the strike but that some employees were crossing picket lines and new workers were being hired.

Schiffman said the union has been working since September without a contract.

He denied statements by the hotel association that a union demand for a $1.50-per-day gratuity charge on guests registering with group tours or conventions is holding up a settlement. He said that several issues remain unsettled.

But union officials said a major issue was that an increase in group tours has cut into the amount of tips collected by the maids.

Air Crash In Thailand Fatal To 73

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — A Buddhist monk performed a memorial ceremony today at the wreckage of an Egyptair jetliner, as workers continued to recover bodies from the rubble of the Christmas Day crash.

Accident investigators searched the twisted steel girders and collapsed concrete of the textile factory hit by the plane, where shattered fragments of the Boeing 707 were scattered.

More than 70 persons died in the disaster — all 55 aboard the airplane and, officials believe, 18 workers in the factory, one mile north of the Bangkok airport.

Twenty-one Japanese arrived early today from Tokyo to try to identify the remains of their relatives. Nine Japanese were among the passengers, and one stewardess was Japanese.

The relatives presented offerings as the monk chanted. A banner read "May the souls of the dead know peace and happiness."

The director of the Thai Civil Aviation Department told reporters that air traffic controllers in the airport tower had detected nothing wrong when the jet prepared to land in light fog about 3:40 a.m.

An eight-member Thai team and a special squad of Egyptian investigators are working together to find the cause of the crash.

The manifest of the Egyptair flight, which originated in Cairo and stopped in Bombay before flying on to Bangkok, listed Egyptians, Thais, Malaysians, Japanese and other nationalities among the passengers.

One American was believed to have boarded the jet at Bombay, but identification was not released pending notification of kin.

Threat Of Energy Shortages Makes Comeback

By TOM DIEMER
Associated Press Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The threat of energy shortages returned to Ohio as 1976 closed following cold autumn temperatures and the prospect of a chilly winter ahead.

In mid-December, Columbia Gas of Ohio, the state's largest supplier of natural gas, said its 970,000 residential customers had used two, and in some cases three, times as much energy as 1975 during the opening weeks of the heating season.

Consequently, the utility said natural gas curtailments to industrial customers capable of switching to other fuels would be increased from the present 65 per cent to 100 per cent.

"This will dramatically affect industry in Ohio," warned Robert S. Ryan, director of the Ohio Energy and Resource Development Agency (OhioERDA). "Gas-dependent companies caught without adequate alternative fuel supplies will have to pay the price for emergency gas or close down."

Ryan said Ohioans had "experienced the coldest October-November season since the weather bureau began keeping records."

Ironically, the beginning of 1976 was approached with dire warnings of plant shutdowns and mass layoffs due to fuel shortages. However, Columbia and other gas utilities purchased fuel on the high-priced unregulated market to aid industry, and after a bitter cold January the weather broke and a relatively mild winter followed. The net effect was the welcome absence of any significant impact on the Ohio economy that could be traced to energy factors.

What kind of weather is in store for the first three months of 1977 is of course a matter for the uncertain field of weather forecasting.

But Ryan noted, "The National Weather Service forecast for the December through February period calls for continued colder than normal weather."

Compounding the problem of frigid weather is the likelihood that gas utilities will be reluctant to turn to the interstate market for extra gas, due to legislation passed in 1976.

"Restrictions on the purchase of emergency gas, as outlined in recent legislation, make it extremely difficult for industrial gas users to supplement supplies," Ryan said.

The law forces gas companies to bill only customers—usually industry—that use emergency fuel, for the cost of that fuel rather than spread the cost among all customers. Utility spokesmen say the price tag on emergency gas would probably be too high for the industrial sector to bear alone.

The major energy-related bill passed in 1976 was repeal of the 64-year-old Reconstruction Cost New Less Depreciation utility rate-making formula used by the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio.

Rather than permit utilities to inflate the value of their property to reflect current costs, the new rate law, effective September 1976, limits the rate base to the original cost of plants and equipment.

The effect on rates paid by the public will not be known until new rate increase cases are decided by the PUCO. Columbia and Dayton Power & Light Co. have both filed for rate increases through the new formula.

The effectiveness of another regulatory bill may be known early in 1977 when public utility commissioners decide a fuel adjustment case involving Columbus & Southern Ohio Electric Co.'s coal purchases.

Under the law, PUCO has the right to order an electric utility to make refunds to customers through billing adjustments if it is determined that a company is adding too much to bills for higher coal costs. A preliminary PUCO staff report concluded that C&SOE was over paying for coal from a subsidiary company, the SimcoPeabody mine in Muskingum County.

If utilities were concerned about restrictive legislation, they were near panic over four ballot issues in November, calling for strict safeguards on nuclear power plants, lifeline service rates and an independent consumer advocate office.

Forming a coalition under the name "Citizens for Safe Lower Cost Electricity," utility companies and their allies spent more than $2 million in a successful campaign to defeat the proposed constitutional amendments.

The main target was Issue 6, a set of standards for nuclear generating plants that electric company officials said would mean an abrupt halt to the development of nuclear power in Ohio.

Ohio's first nuclear plant, the Davis-Besse facility near Port Clinton, should go into full operation in July as a joint venture of Cleveland Electric Illuminating and Toledo Edison.

Although all three issues were defeated, it appeared that the lifeline proposal—low rates for minimum block use of gas and electricity—would be revived in some form by legislation.

Utility officials, meeting privately with other special interests after the election, said they were committed to a rate relief plan for the needy and elderly, possibly a version of lifeline.

Also, Gov. James A. Rhodes has promised to earmark $150 million in his 1977-79 budget proposal to be used in a plan that would help senior citizens and welfare recipients pay utility bills.

On the consumer level, Ohioans for Utility Reform (OUR), sponsors of the ill-fated ballot issues, survived the election and vowed to remain active on the legislative front as a lobbying agent against high utility rates.

Let Freedom Ring No Longer Ringing

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Try to Let Freedom Ring in the Columbus area and all you get is: "We're sorry. You have reached a number that has been disconnected or is no longer in service."

Let Freedom Ring is one of several listings for recorded messages in the Columbus telephone directory.

The caller gets the same recorded message when trying to Dial-A-Prayer.

"...If you feel you have reached this recording in error, please check the number or try your call again."

You can Dial-A-Bird and get a message from the Columbus Audubon Society that begins with a five-second bird whistle, then eases into a report on how many Canada geese, yellow shafted flickers, titmice and Carolina chickadees were spotted by society members during the organization's annual yuletide count.

Dial-A-Devotion? Trinity Lutheran Church operates a call-in message service that presents short sermons by the Rev. Larry Hoffis and tells callers about church activities ranging from services to athletic events.

If you Dial-For-Life the First Baptist Church of Groveport says "God has a wonderful plan for you," and offers to send you religious literature.

"Hello friend," begins the Rev. Gene F. Bryant, a Baptist minister, on his recorded message, Good News For Jewish Listeners—listed in the telephone book under Jewish Good News.

His message includes readings from the Old Testament which he says Christians interpret to prophesy the birth of Christ.

If you're a resident of the affluent suburb of Bexley you can call that city's information center and get a recorded message telling you about criminal activities and civic group meetings. Mayor David Madison said about 150 people call the number each day. And he added that thought is being given to expanding the city's message equipment to handle more calls.

"I think it has opened up a whole new line of communication... it has been tremendously successful," he said.

Several movie theatres have recorded messages about the films they are showing.

But if a caller just wants to know the time and temperature, Ohio Bell has a recorded message service that gives that information and peddles new phones and space in the Yellow Pages of the telephone directory to boot.

Bad Weather Rakes East

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Heavy snow warnings were discontinued for the Northeast today after the strongest part of a winter storm moved out over the Atlantic. Even so, as much as 6 inches of additional snow could accumulate locally along the New York shore of Lake Ontario, the National Weather Service said.

A winter storm watch was continued over north and northeast portions of Illinois.

Travelers advisories remained over parts of western Pennsylvania as well as portions of Kentucky and Virginia. Travelers advisories were posted over Minnesota and over the southern portion of Wisconsin.

Snow showers or flurries remained scattered over the east end of the Ohio valley early today, northeastward across the east end of the Great Lakes and from New Jersey through New England.

Snow showers also remained over the upper Mississippi valley and upper Great Lakes. Snow flurries in the upper Missouri valley became mixed with rain in the northern Intermountain, then became rain along the Pacific northwest coast. Skies remained generally clear over the southern third of the nation as well as most of the Rockies and Intermountain region.

Temperatures dropped rapidly during the early morning hours.

Overnight readings ranged from 62 at Key West, Fla. to 6 below zero at Pellston, Mich.

Civil War In Canada Feared

OTTAWA, Canada (AP) — Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau says he would not lead Canadians into a civil war if predominantly French-speaking Quebec tries to break away from the rest of Canada. But he says he does not treat the possibility of such a war lightly.

"We have the examples of Lebanon and Cyprus and Northern Ireland and Bangladesh," Trudeau said in a television interview Sunday. "We have all kinds of contemporary examples of the absurdity of trying to solve the differences of ethnic and religious principles by arms. You start shooting and you don't easily stop."

"I'm just saying that I would not be the man to lead Canada into a civil war, but I don't say there wouldn't be others who would want to take up arms, and hence the danger is not one that I am minimizing."

Trudeau said he was determined to counter the separatist movement in Quebec by working through Canada's democratic structures.

However, the prime minister cautioned that merely giving provincial governments more power in some form of federalism would not be enough to sway Quebec's new ruling party away from its policy of eventual independence.

Rene Levesque of the separatist Parti Quebecois (PQ) was elected premier of the province last month, after his Frenchspeaking party scored an upset victory in provincial elections. Levesque said he plans to call a referendum on independence within two years. Trudeau has said a national referendum would follow if separation was endorsed by a strong majority in Quebec.

Blaze Kills 20 Persons

ST. JOHN'S, Newfoundland (AP) — Police were to search the ruins of a nursing home again today for the bodies of more victims in a fire that killed at least 20 persons, including a 105-year-old woman and a 16-year-old boy.

Twenty bodies were recovered Sunday afternoon. A Royal Canadian Mounted Police spokesman said another search was scheduled for today, "just to be certain" there are no others.

Many of those killed were elderly women, some bedridden. The boy was among several young persons visiting relatives at the home.

After the fire broke out about 1:30 a.m. Sunday, Chafe's Rest Home was quickly engulfed in flames fanned by strong winds.

Firemen, hampered by subzero weather, chopped through six inches of ice on a pond to get water to fight the blaze, officials said. There were no fire hydrants in the rural area about six miles south of St. John's, the provincial capital of Newfoundland.

Assistant Chief Leroy Soper of the St. John's Fire Department said all the elderly residents staying at the home at the time of the fire were killed. But Soper said he did not know how many of the 25 to 30 permanent residents were away visiting relatives for Christmas.

Lewis Dunphy, who operated the home, and two members of his family escaped unhurt, police said.

Thieves Take Money Changers

Thieves took four money changers and three tape players after breaking into the Rittenhouse Enterprises, Inc., 1175 Columbus Street, Harrisburg, Thursday or Friday.

A window to the building was forced, according to reports at the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department.

The money changers contained an unknown amount of coins. Sixteen cartons of cigarettes were also stolen.

The tape players were owned by Dale Rittenhouse, Rick Blanton, and Charles Tindle.

Thieves made off with $645 worth of merchandise from the 12710 Mattville Road, Commercial Point, home of Jeffrey M. Layton.

Entry was gained by breaking a window on the front door.

Items taken include three shotguns, a stereo, two television sets, a clock, a bottle of wine, and a black light fixture.

Thieves forced the screen door of a house owned by Edward L. Richards, 11584½ Hedges St., Ashville.

An AM-FM radio valued at $30 was taken.

Harrison Firemen Save House

A fire early Christmas morning destroyed the upper story of the Jess Blankenship family home and most of their clothing.

Excellent work by the Harrison Twp. Fire Department saved the remainder of the structure, according to Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff Jim Fite, who assisted at the 2:35 a.m. blaze at the Blankenship home, 3590 Bell Station Road.

The upper floor of the two-story frame house was smoldering upon the arrival of two Harrison Twp. fire fighting units, according to Deputy Fite.

And the fire fighters battled the blaze for an hour before putting it out.

The fire was believed to have been started by an electric blanket. Damage is estimated at $5,000 to the house, which is owned by Mildred Kerr, Columbus, and $500 to the contents.

As a result of the fire, the Blankenship family is in need of clothing, bed clothes, and bedroom furniture, according to Mrs. Etha Mae Wolford of the Pickaway County Chapter, American Red Cross.

Blankenship wears size 16 shirts and size 34-32 pants. His wife wears size 52 dresses.

Three of their daughters wear size 12-14 women's clothing and 5½ to 7 shoes. A five-year-old daughter wears size 5 to 6 clothing and 7½ shoes.

Their two sons wear size 28-31 pants, size 14-14½ shirts, and 8½ or 11 shoes.

The Harrison Twp. Fire Department also battled a 7:46 p.m. Sunday blaze in a corn crib on the Route 1, Hagerty Road, farm of David Hedges.

About 10,000 bushels of corn were in the storage bin.

Tire Industry Coming Back From Costly Strike

By NEIL BIBLER
Associated Press Writer
AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Month after marathon month, the major part of the nation's rubber industry and 70,000 of its workers locked horns in a historic strike over pay, inflation protection and production terms.

Automakers, their tire supplies dwindling despite stockpiling, shipped new cars without spares. Months later, some new owners still awaited their fifth wheels.

With 47 rubber company plants idled coast to coast — many of them tire production centers — winter tire shortages were predicted.

Consumer price increases of 12 to 17 per cent were forecast, and the tire companies worried aloud that red ink might flow copiously.

Union strike benefits, $35 a week at first and soon cut to $25, long had been exhausted; and many individual rubber workers were finding their financial reserves equally depleted.

Still the deadlock dragged on.

It began at 12:01 a.m. April 21 for 60,000 of the United Rubber Workers Union's 190,000 members when a last-hour offer by Firestone Tire & Rubber Co., the firm the URW picked to set the industrywide pattern, fell far short of demands.

It was the first time the URW had struck all four of the largest U.S. companies simultaneously.

The union went into the negotiations asking for a 42 per cent overall boost for its average hourly package of $9.05, of which $5.50 was wages. It demanded an hourly raise of $1.65 over three years — $2 for skilled tradesmen.

It also insisted on winning for the first time the cost-of-living adjustment (COLA) that had become commonplace in many fields. And the COLA must be "uncapped" — without any maximum, the URW said.

Firestone had offered 85 cents an hour over three years plus a COLA the union called too restrictive.

When the end came, pickets had been marching 141 days at some plants.

But the settlement's 36 per cent increase not only was the largest of the year's U.S. labor negotiations, it also was the largest the URW had ever won.

And it included the COLA deemed by many to be more valuable than the $1.35 general hourly wage hikes or the benefit boosts themselves.

Labor Secretary W.J. Usery Jr. and the director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, James F. Searce, who jointly engineered the key breakthrough, agreed that it was expensive and inflationary.

But they also argued that the rubber workers were due the boost because federal wage controls had limited their bargaining three years earlier, when inflation was "at its worst."

Peter Bommarito, the dapper and energetic URW international president who was adamant in demanding the catchup package, was tired but happy in voicing praise for the rank and file's steadfastness.

The industry, rushing back into production, immediately predicted that the 1976 rise in tire sales would equal a 30-year record.

And 1977, spokesmen said, was going to be a good if not great year.

The strikers hit Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., B.F. Goodrich Co. and Uniroyal, Inc., at the same time they walked out on Firestone, though they also mounted a consumer boycott campaign against the latter. They also claimed massive support by colleagues in other countries, a move designed to offset the strength of the multinational firms.

Workers at other companies where contracts expired later were expected to join the strike as their agreements ran out, and ultimately about 10,000 from Armstrong Rubber Co. and others did so. But with internal squabbling, the 2,900 at two General Tire & Rubber Co. plants remained on the job.

As the statement wore on without sign of progress at the Cleveland bargaining table across which Bommarito faced Firestone representatives, both Searce and Usery flew in to nudge things along.

When their more or less gentle pushing failed, Usery called the chief participants to Washington for a mid-

August weekend from which came an "economic understanding" that contained the pattern for most of the money matters.

About two weeks later, tentative comprehensive agreements were reached with Firestone and Goodyear. A pact covering the 22,000 who had struck Goodyear was ratified on Aug. 28, and that for Firestone's 15,500 was approved one day later.

Uniroyal's tentative agreement for 12,500 workers came Sept. 3 with ratification following quickly, and Goodrich talks applying to 9,100 were completed Sept. 6. By Sept. 10, return to normal operations was well under way everywhere and the strike, the union's longest ever against the major firms, was history.

Not everyone was satisfied. "If this came back 60 days after we hit the bricks, it would have been turned down," an Akron URW official said. "There are some features here that we're a little bit disappointed with," said another, "but overall, it's a hell of a big package."

Besides the general wage hike, the package provided an additional 40 cents an hour for skilled tradesmen in its first two years.

The COLA, the "clean and uncapped" feature Bommarito said was the key, would mean another 69 cents overall if inflation were six per cent per year, Firestone said.

Pensions were upgraded, for those already retired as well as those yet to do so. Life and health insurance programs were raised, and some protection in event of job loss through plant shutdown was increased. So was company contribution to Supplemental Unemployment Benefit programs.

Companies largely held the line on some demands, notably on the "25 (years) and out" early retirement issue.

But they won few of the work assignment changes they said were necessary to improve productivity so they could better their competitive position relative to smaller or nonunion operations.

The winter tire shortage proved to be more a matter of spot problems and lack of radials than a general deficit.

But the red ink did flow freely on company balance sheets, augmented by devaluations in foreign currency in most cases.

Goodyear reported a ninemonth earning decline of 46.5 per cent from a similar period a year earlier. Firestone said the drop in its fiscal year ended Oct. 31 was 28.5 per cent, including the effects of a 72.5 per cent plunge in its final quarter.

Goodrich lost nearly $20.1 million in its Sept. 30-ended third quarter, including $12.1 million from disposal of a Dutch subsidiary. Its ninemonth loss was nearly $7.1 million.

Goodyear pegged the strikerelated sales loss at $200 million industrywide and said that foreign tiremakers, selling about four million auto tires and one million truck tires while the domestic giants sat idled by the strike, may have made permanent market inroads.

But both to meet demand and to rebuild depleted inventories, 1977 is expected to be the "biggest production year in history" industrywide, Goodyear added.

Gasoline Tax Checks Mailed By Auditor

December gasoline tax checks totaling $9,943,951 were distributed today by State Auditor Thomas E. Ferguson's office to Ohio counties, townships, cities and villages.

Circleville received $33,740 in the distribution. Ashville received $3,038, Commercial Point $846, Darbyville $344, Harrisburg $48, New Holland $903, Orient $806, South Bloomfield $1,304, Tarlton $1,076 and Williamsport $2,163.

Of the amount, each of Ohio's 1,320 townships received $1,200 while each of the counties received $35,000 apiece.

Ashtabula, with the most townships, received $32,400 for distribution to them while Cuyahoga County, with the least, received $4,800 for the townships.

The remaining $5,279,951 went to 941 cities and villages, based upon $1 per motor vehicle registered within their borders, as set forth in the latest registration compilation.

Ferguson said gasoline excise tax receipts can be used only for street and roadway purposes.

Derailment Of Train Injures 36

DOWNINGTOWN, Pa. (AP) — The derailment of a Philadelphia-to-Chicago train, added to Amtrak's schedule to deal with the holiday rush, sent 36 travelers to hospitals.

Four of the injured were hospitalized overnight. Spokesmen at Coatesville General Hospital and Chester County Hospital said none of the injuries was serious.

The five-car train, a special section of the Broadway Limited, derailed about 7:30 p.m. Sunday, said Lois Morasco, an Amtrak spokeswoman.

The injured were taken to hospitals by ambulance, and other passengers were taken to Downingtown Senior High School.

Amtrak estimated that there were about 200 people aboard, and said that about 95 were bused to Harrisburg, where they continued their trip by train. Four people were lodged overnight in a Chester County motel and about 100 people returned to homes in the Philadelphia area, Miss Morasco said.

The derailment pulled down overhead power lines, severing rail connections between Philadelphia and Harrisburg. It also knocked out electricity in the western end of Downingtown.

Power was restored within 2½ hours in Downingtown, and train service was back to normal for this morning's rush hour.

Amtrak officials were investigating the cause of the accident.

The derailment was the second delay for Amtrak travelers on the holiday weekend. All passenger service to and from the southeastern United States was delayed for about eight hours Friday when a freight train derailed and blocked the only bridge across the Potomac River near Washington, D.C..

New State Program Eyed On Insulation

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — David Sweet, a member of the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio (PUCO), says if all the house attics in Ohio were adequately insulated, Ohio would "find" 35.1 billion cubic feet of gas and residents would save $72 million in heating bills.

That is one reason the PUCO is studying programs instituted by utilities in some other states, such as Michigan Consolidated Gas Co.'s program to encourage do-it-yourself insulation.

Michigan Consolidated of Detroit even finances the work for some customers. The company says the result has been the "finding" of 3.5 billion cubic feet of gas.

Washington Natural Gas Co. of Seattle started selling attic insulation and later expanded to sidewall insulation, pilotless furnaces, thermostats that turn down automatically at night, storm windows and more efficient water heaters.

The company says the attic insulation, costing $180 to $200, can save the average user 22 per cent of his heating bill, and the sidewall insulation—a more expensive operation involving foam injected between the studs—can save 28 per cent.

"I don't see why we can't take some of the ideas and do our own job in Ohio," said Sweet. "Rather than getting the state involved in a loan guarantee program encouraging homeowner investment in insulation, let's try another route. Why not get the utilities involved in using their capital in insulation programs and earning a return on that capital?"

Last year, Sweet proposed a low-cost state loan program to encourage home insulation. The proposal ran into objections involving constitutional problems but is still under study.

Sweet says additional gas made available through such savings would permit resumption of gas service for new homes and ease the problem for Ohio industry, which has been hit by cutbacks in natural gas service during the winter months in recent years.

Tire Industry Coming Back From Costly Strike

By NEIL BIBLER
Associated Press Writer

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Month after marathon month, the major part of the nation's rubber industry and 70,000 of its workers looked horns in a historic strike over pay, inflation protection and production terms.

Automakers, their tire supplies dwindling despite stockpiling, shipped new cars without spares. Months later, some new owners still awaited their fifth wheels.

With 47 rubber company plants idled coast to coast — many of them tire production centers — winter tire shortages were predicted.

Sen. Philip Hart Dies; Civil Rights Leader

WASHINGTON (AP) — Philip A. Hart, who influenced major civil rights and consumer protection legislation during three terms in the U.S. Senate, is dead at 64.

Hart, a Michigan Democrat, died at his Washington home Sunday, a victim of cancer.

Often called "the conscience of the Senate," Hart worked hard for passage of civil rights laws and for measures that would protect consumers from powerful big business interests. He sought unsuccessfully to win approval of legislation to dismantle the nation's largest businesses.

Hart was a leader of the Senate liberals and had announced in June of 1975 that he would not seek a fourth Senate term because he believed "that the guard should be changed with some regularity."

A month after his announcement, Hart discovered he had cancer.

A spokesman for Hart's office said he died of malignant melanoma.

President-elect Carter issued a statement from his office in Plains, Ga., praising Hart as "a man of unquestioned integrity" who "exemplified the highest of moral and ethical standards in public service. He was a friend of the American consumer and a tireless worker against injustice."

Carter called Hart's death "a tragic loss."

President Ford, vacationing in Vail, Colo., expressed "deep regret" over Hart's death.

Fellow Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., called Hart "a giant in the Senate.... His voice never shook the rafters, but touched the conscience of every senator who worked with him."

According to a spokesman for Hart's office, funeral arrangements were planned by Hart and his wife. The spokesman said a public memorial Mass will be celebrated at St. Matthews Cathedral here Tuesday. Hart's body will be cremated and the remains taken to Mackinac Island, Mich., on Wednesday for private burial in St. Anne's Catholic cemetery, the spokesman said. The Harts have a home on the island.

Donald W. Riegle, another Democrat, is to succeed Hart in the Senate next month. Riegle was elected to the House as a Republican in 1966, became a Democrat in 1973 and won the Senate seat last month.

Hart's strong feelings about civil rights and about the rights of consumers in the American marketplace often had him standing alone against members of his own party.

Hart headed the Judiciary Committee's subcommittee on antitrust and monopolies for years, staging hearings on big business that he called

Vietnam Relations May Move Forward

ATLANTA (AP) — Andrew Young, who has been selected by President-elect Carter to be U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, says repairing American relations with Vietnam could make that country "a buffer against China" and an outlet for U.S. trade.

"We need a strong Vietnam, and President-elect Carter already has said if the Vietnamese give an accounting of those Americans missing in action, he'd see what was necessary to move on normalization of relations," Young said in an interview with The Associated Press.

The 44-year-old Georgia congressman said he believes Vietnam's status will continue to be an issue in the United Nations. The United States twice has vetoed Vietnam's application to join the world body.

Getting Communist nations "to relate to the United States instead of each other" should be the Carter administration's primary goal in foreign policy, he said. "It's important for us to continue relations with China and other Communist countries, but we must keep them looking to us."

"Vietnam could develop into an independent Communist nation like Yugoslavia and be a buffer against China."

Young said Vietnam, with its untapped oil in the Gulf of Tonkin, and Cuba, with its sugar revenues and need for American-made products, could both provide new avenues for U.S. trade.

"The only people who have the technology to drill on the ocean floor are in the United States," he said. "They'll have to come to us if they want it out."

Probe Air Crash Near Fort Wayne

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP) — Federal authorities pressed their investigation today into the Christmas night plane crash that claimed the lives of two Missouri college instructors and their daughter.

Services were scheduled here Tuesday for Dr. Marion Wirth, 44, Mrs. Sandra Wirth, 37, and 5-year-old Jennifer Wirth. They died Saturday night when their single engine plane crashed moments after taking off from the Columbia City, Ind., airport.

Witnesses said the weather was clear at the time of the mishap.

Vietnam Relations May Move Forward

ATLANTA (AP) — Andrew Young, who has been selected by President-elect Carter to be U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, says repairing American relations with Vietnam could make that country "a buffer against China" and an outlet for U.S. trade.

"We need a strong Vietnam, and President-elect Carter already has said if the Vietnamese give an accounting of those Americans missing in action, he'd see what was necessary to move on normalization of relations," Young said in an interview with The Associated Press.

The 44-year-old Georgia congressman said he believes Vietnam's status will continue to be an issue in the United Nations. The United States twice has vetoed Vietnam's application to join the world body.

Getting Communist nations "to relate to the United States instead of each other" should be the Carter administration's primary goal in foreign policy, he said. "It's important for us to continue relations with China and other Communist countries, but we must keep them looking to us."

"Vietnam could develop into an independent Communist nation like Yugoslavia and be a buffer against China."

Young said Vietnam, with its untapped oil in the Gulf of Tonkin, and Cuba, with its sugar revenues and need for American-made products, could both provide new avenues for U.S. trade.

"The only people who have the technology to drill on the ocean floor are in the United States," he said. "They'll have to come to us if they want it out."

Young, a former strategist for the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., also said outgoing Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's negotiations in the Middle East had, for the most part, been sound.

"In the Middle East, our policy has been fair," he said. "We've stayed involved and made the best decisions possible."

However, he said he felt the proliferation of arms in Arab nations through American deals had been a mistake.

"Much of the arms shipments has gone to countries which may one day be at war with Israel," Young said.

He said he felt the Arab world was close to settling the dispute with Israel but had yet to find a solution to what he said was the real Middle Eastern problem, radical political movements.

Sen. Philip Hart Dies; Civil Rights Leader

WASHINGTON (AP) — Philip A. Hart, who influenced major civil rights and consumer protection legislation during three terms in the U.S. Senate, is dead at 64.

Hart, a Michigan Democrat, died at his Washington home Sunday, a victim of cancer.

Often called "the conscience of the Senate," Hart worked hard for passage of civil rights laws and for measures that would protect consumers from powerful big business interests. He sought unsuccessfully to win approval of legislation to dismantle the nation's largest businesses.

Hart was a leader of the Senate liberals and had announced in June of 1975 that he would not seek a fourth Senate term because he believed "that the guard should be changed with some regularity."

A month after his announcement, Hart discovered he had cancer.

A spokesman for Hart's office said he died of malignant melanoma.

President-elect Carter issued a statement from his office in Plains, Ga., praising Hart as "a man of unquestioned integrity" who "exemplified the highest of moral and ethical standards in public service. He was a friend of the American consumer and a tireless worker against injustice."

Carter called Hart's death "a tragic loss."

President Ford, vacationing in Vail, Colo., expressed "deep regret" over Hart's death.

Fellow Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., called Hart "a giant in the Senate.... His voice never shook the rafters, but touched the conscience of every senator who worked with him."

According to a spokesman for Hart's office, funeral arrangements were planned by Hart and his wife. The spokesman said a public memorial Mass will be celebrated at St. Matthews Cathedral here Tuesday. Hart's body will be cremated and the remains taken to Mackinac Island, Mich., on Wednesday for private burial in St. Anne's Catholic cemetery, the spokesman said. The Harts have a home on the island.

Donald W. Riegle, another Democrat, is to succeed Hart in the Senate next month. Riegle was elected to the House as a Republican in 1966, became a Democrat in 1973 and won the Senate seat last month.

Hart's strong feelings about civil rights and about the rights of consumers in the American marketplace often had him standing alone against members of his own party.

Hart headed the Judiciary Committee's subcommittee on antitrust and monopolies for years, staging hearings on big business that he called

"poorly attended lectures on the evils of economic concentration."

Those hearings produced what Hart called "a modest little bill" to break up the nation's largest and most powerful conglomerates, including General Motors, the single most powerful economic influence in Hart's home state.

For 10 years he fought for the idea, finally coming close to victory in September when the Senate came within five votes of adopting his proposal to break up the 20 largest oil companies.

"In theory, we have a free enterprise system," Hart once said. "But in fact, in each of our basic industries, a handful of corporations calls the shots, immune from the pressures of competition."

Probe Air Crash Near Fort Wayne

FORT WAYNE, Ind. (AP) — Federal authorities pressed their investigation today into the Christmas night plane crash that claimed the lives of two Missouri college instructors and their daughter.

Services were scheduled here Tuesday for Dr. Marion Wirth, 44, Mrs. Sandra Wirth, 37, and 5-year-old Jennifer Wirth. They died Saturday night when their single engine plane crashed moments after taking off from the Columbia City, Ind., airport.

Witnesses said the weather was clear at the time of the mishap.

Raiders Pound Wounded Steelers, 24-7

OAKLAND (AP) — For the Pittsburgh Steelers, the magic Super Bowl number ended at two — two championships won but not a third because of two stars who couldn't run.

And for the Oakland Raiders, the number two may be only the beginning.

Sunday's American Conference championship, the final step before the National Football League extravaganza with the Roman numerals, was painfully one-sided, painfully decided by the pain Franco Harris and Rocky Bleier endured.

Between them, they had rolled up 2,164 rushing yards during the regular season, two massive reasons why the Steelers had averaged 212 yards per game on the ground, why quarterback Terry Bradshaw could be selective and successful in his passing, why the defense, so well rested between appearances, could do its job so frighteningly well.

But Harris, with bruised ribs, and Bleier, with a sprained toe, never set foot on the Oakland Coliseum field during Sunday's game. Without them, the Pittsburgh ground game went nowhere, Bradshaw had to pass much too often with limited success, the defense burned itself out — and the Raiders, with some solid running and passing of their own, won 24-7.

And so Oakland, which hasn't been to a Super Bowl since the number II (when it lost 33-14 to Green Bay) will be in number XI on Jan. 9 in Pasadena, Calif., facing Minnesota. The Vikings are making their fourth Super Bowl appearance (and still looking for a winning one) following their 24-13 National Conference title victory over Los Angeles earlier Sunday.

Just how much the absence of Harris and Bleier hurt the Steelers depended on who was doing the talking.

Coach John Madden, whose Raiders are riding a 12-game winning streak, said it meant nothing. "Sure, Franco and Rocky didn't play," he acknowledged, "but that didn't make any difference. Hell, no! You put the men you have out there for 60 minutes. We've played the Steelers in games with people missing, too, you know."

But Chuck Noll, whose Steelers' winning streak ended at 10, said the handicap was enormous. "It's tough to come into the biggest game with your hands tied behind your back, with two of your big weapons out."

In each of the last two years it was the Steelers who beat the Raiders for the AFC title.

This time it was very clear very early that the Steelers weren't going to go out and take the title. If they were going to get it, Oakland was going to have to give it to them.

The Raiders never even came close to offering up a post-Christmas gift. Ken Stabler, who completed 10 of 16 passes for 88 yards and two touchdowns, never threw an interception. The Raiders never fumbled the ball away.

Pittsburgh, with reserve running back Reggie Harrison gaining 44 of the team's 72 yards rushing (three of them on a touchdown run in the second period), failed to get a first down for the first 19 minutes of play.

By then the Raiders led 10-0 on Errol Mann's 39-yard field goal and Clarence Davis' one-yard TD dive, the latter coming three plays after linebacker Willie Hall picked off a Bradshaw pass and returned it 24 yards to the Pittsburgh one.

Stabler's four-yard scoring pass to tight end Warren Bankston, a former Steeler, with 19 seconds to go in the half made it 17-7, then Stabler put the game away with a five-yard TD toss to Pete Banaszak in the third period.

The Steelers put Stabler away on that play. Linebacker Jack Ham leveled the Oakland passer just as he let go of the ball. "I got rapped in the head and hit in the ribs," Stabler said. "I could have played. I could have thrown short passes. But it would have been painful."

So he sat out the remaining 19 minutes or so of the game, and it didn't hurt a bit. The Raiders, with Mark van Eeghen finishing with 66 yards rushing, Davis adding 54 and Banaszak getting 46, controlled the ball for long stretches — and they controlled Pittsburgh when they didn't have it.

Bradshaw, throwing almost every time the ball was snapped as the game wore on, finished with completions on 14 of 35 attempts for 176 yards.

There were fears that the game would degenerate into a brawl, mostly because of the concussion Pittsburgh receiver Lynn Swann had suffered when safety George Atkinson slugged him during the opening game of the season. A few punches were, in fact, thrown, but nothing serious developed.

"It was a good, solid football game," Stabler said. "Nobody was out there taking cheap shots."

And for once, it was the Raiders who came out on top, ending a string of six AFC title games in which they came out second best to another team.

"We've lived with this thing for a long time," Madden said, "the talk about not being able to win the big one. Well, this year we finally did it right."

OSU, Colorado Eye Hampering Injuries

MIAMI (AP) — Colorado apparently has lost its No. 2 tailback for the Orange Bowl Saturday night against Ohio State, which has weathered injury problems of its own.

Howard Ballage, the Buffaloes' fifth leading rusher in an 8-3 regular season, was walking around Sunday with his right knee in a cast. The 6-foot, 182-pound sophomore from Pueblo, Colo., sprained the knee in a workout.

"I doubt if he plays against Ohio State," said Mike Moran, the Big Eight trichampions' publicist. Ballage gained 93 yards rushing this college football season, playing behind Tony Reed.

Charlie Martin was expected to take over Ballage's spot when the 12th-ranked Buffaloes resumed drills today at Miami Dade Community College North. Martin, a 192-pound freshman from Wheaton, Ill., carried the ball just four times for eight yards in 1976.

The most serious injury for Ohio State was a possible stress fracture of star defensive tackle Nick Buonamici's leg. Buonamici bypassed part of Sunday's workout at the University of Miami to undergo x-rays.

The x-rays proved negative and the 6-3, 240-pound senior from Brentwood, N.Y., likely will play Saturday night for the No. 11 Buckeyes, 8-2-1 and co-champions of the Big Ten.

Meanwhile, two offensive line regulars, guard Bill Lukens and tight end Greg Storer, resumed practice Sunday for Ohio State.

Lukens, 6-1, 233-pound senior from Cincinnati, has been troubled by a back injury. Storer, 6-5, 224-pound Cincinnati junior, also was forced to miss two workouts. Storer had an ankle sprain.

Woody Hayes, drilling his ninth Ohio State team for a bowl appearance, cut a Sunday workout to one hour because of a wind-swept rainstorm. Colorado had the day off.

"It got so bad I was afraid of lightning," Hayes said.

The abbreviated workout forced Hayes to alter his practice schedule. The Buckeyes will drill Tuesday, originally scheduled as an idle day.

Starting with today's workouts, both sides, facing each other in a bowl game for the first time, will practice every day, going under the Orange Bowl's lights later in the week.

The nationally televised game (NBC-TV) will start at approximately 8 p.m. Saturday, depending on the finish of the Rose Bowl.

Winnipeg Shatters Quebec Noridques

By DAVE KAYE
AP Sports Writer

The Winnipeg Jets just don't get any respect.

They had just returned from an unsuccessful appearance at the Izvestia hockey tournament in Moscow and, in their first league game following the tournament, were humiliated 12-3 by the Quebec Nordiques.

After spotting Winnipeg a goal in the opening minute of play, Quebec poured in seven consecutive first-period goals to quickly put the game out of reach.

"I thought before the game we might have a tough first period and get down a goal or two," said Winnipeg Coach Bobby Kromm after the massacre. "But not seven to one."

In other World Hockey Association games, Calgary beat Cincinnati 6-3, New England defeated Minnesota 3-2, Birmingham overwhelmed Houston 6-2 and San Diego came from behind to defeat Indianapolis 2-1.

Notre Dame, Penn State Clash Tonight

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Their 1976 records aren't exactly what Notre Dame and Penn State consider up to par, but all that will be forgotten when two of the most famous schools in college football history square off tonight in the Gator Bowl.

"We're 7-4 and they're 8-3," says Penn State linebacker Kurt Allerman, "but you don't think of records in a game like this. You think of two great, traditional football teams, powerful teams with a lot of class."

"It's not that we're 7-4 and they're 8-3, but that we're Penn State and they're Notre Dame. That's where the matchup comes in. You associate college football with Notre Dame because of their fine tradition and national publicity. You hear so much about Notre Dame. I've always wanted to play them."

The fifth meeting in the series — but the first in 48 years — finds Notre Dame ranked 15th in the country and Penn State tied for 20th. The game will be nationally televised on ABC starting at 9 p.m. EST.

A Notre Dame defeat would make it the losingest season for the Fighting Irish in 13 years; Penn State hasn't lost five games in one season since 1966, Joe Paterno's first year as head coach.

Many players in tonight's game were recruited by both schools but probably none has closer ties on both sides than Allerman, a senior from Kinnelon, N.J., and the latest in Penn State's string of outstanding linebackers.

Black Hawks Top Rockies

By BARRY WILNER
AP Sports Writer

Through 16 years in professional hockey, Bill White knew what it was like to be a winning player. Now White knows how it feels to be a winning coach.

White, who replaced Billy Reay as coach of the Chicago Black Hawks last Wednesday, saw the Black Hawks break a 12-game winless streak with a 5-3 National Hockey League triumph over the Colorado Rockies. It was the former defenseman's first victory as a coach.

"I can't take credit for this," White said after J.P. Boredeau's two second-period goals powered the Hawks to victory. "The players did it all. I'm trying my best to get everyone available into the games and I'm learning something each new game."

"The players are the ones who deserve a pat on the back for this one." In other NHL action, John Bucyk moved into fourth place on the all-time scoring list as Boston topped Cleveland 6-3, the New York Islanders edged their neighborhood rivals, the Rangers, 2-1, Pittsburgh beat Toronto 4-2 and Buffalo downed Washington 5-2.

The Cincinnati Reds led the major leagues in home runs in 1976 with 141. The Boston Red Sox were second with 124 in the American League.

Maravich, Jazz Defeat Bullets

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"I couldn't believe Pete Maravich tonight," said Dick Motta.

The coach of the Washington Bullets no doubt voiced the opinion of many who watched Maravich perform in New Orleans Sunday night.

The multi-faceted star of the New Orleans Jazz was in peak form, scoring 50 points to lead his team to a 109-100 National Basketball Association victory over the Bullets.

Maravich did not start out like a ball of fire. He only scored four points in the first quarter. But then he had 16 in the second period and 15 in each of the last two periods.

In other NBA games, the New York Knicks defeated the Atlanta Hawks 103-98; the Houston Rockets trimmed the Indiana Pacers 93-79; the Buffalo Braves turned back the Cleveland Cavaliers 103-96; the San Antonio Spurs beat the Kansas City Kings 110-105; the Boston Celtics nipped the Denver Nuggets 103-101; the Los Angeles Lakers whipped the Milwaukee Bucks 107-99, and the Seattle SuperSonics nudged the Portland Trail Blazers 89-87.

With Maravich having a cold first quarter, the Bullets held a 34-20 lead at the end of the first 12 minutes. But his output in the second and third periods pulled the Jazz into a 79-79 tie at the end of three.

Washington's Elvin Hayes had all of his 30 points in the first three periods to keep the Bullets in the contest, but Maravich's 15 in the fourth quarter helped New Orleans pull away.

Maravich, whose performance nearly equalled his career-high 51 earlier this season, got help from Freddie Boyd's 22 points. Washington got 25 from Phil Chenier.

Knicks 103, Hawks 98
Earl Monroe scored 28 points to lead New York over Atlanta. Tom Henderson's 25 points was tops for the Hawks, who have lost five straight games. The Knicks have won four of their last five games.

Rockets 93, Pacers 79
John Johnson scored 16 of his 20 points in the second half, leading a balanced Houston attack that carried the Rockets past Indiana.

Braves 103, Cavaliers 96
John Shumate converted a three-point play to derail a Cleveland comeback and help Buffalo beat the Cavaliers. Cleveland had cut the margin to 94-91 with 4:28 remaining, until the big center hit a shot and was fouled with 4:12 left.

Spurs 110, Kings 105

Larry Kenon and Allan Bristow combined for 33 points in the second half to lead San Antonio over Kansas City.

Celtics 103, Nuggets 101

Guards Charlie Scott and Jo Jo White combined for 55 points and Boston's aggressive defense held Denver scoreless during the final 3½ minutes, leading the Celtics over the Nuggets.

Lakers 107, Bucks 99

Rookie Earl Tatum's 18-foot jump shot with 4½ minutes remaining began a 13-0 scoring blitz as Los Angeles came from behind to beat Milwaukee. The Lakers got a pro-high 16 points from Tatum.

Sonics 89, Trail Blazers 87

Rookie Dennis Johnson and Nick Weatherspoon sparked a fourth-quarter rally to carry Seattle past Portland. Weatherspoon hit successive baskets to put Seattle in front to stay, 75-73 with 5:39 to play.

Dayton Gems Defeat Toledo In IHL, 8-2

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Three Dayton players scored two goals each as the Gems defeated Toledo in International Hockey League action and moved back into a tie with the Goadiggers for first place in the South Division.

Jack Patterson, Frank Werner and Bill Riley each fired in two goals Sunday night to pace the Gems to their 8-2 victory. Dayton peppered Toledo goalie Pierre Chagnon with 44 shots, 25 in the second period alone.

Ray Kurpis and Al Dumba had the other Gem goals while Lorne Weighill and Jim Johnston had goals for Toledo. The Gems now are 17-14-1 with 35 points and Toledo is 15-15-5 with 35 points.

In other IHL games, Flint overtook Columbus, 6-3; Port Huron edged Saginaw, 3-1; and Fort Wayne dumped Kalamazoo, 4-2.

Raiders Pound Wounded Steelers, 24-7

OAKLAND (AP) — For the Pittsburgh Steelers, the magic Super Bowl number ended at two — two championships won but not a third because of two stars who couldn't run. And for the Oakland Raiders, the number two may be only the beginning. Sunday's American Conference championship, the final step before the National Football League extravaganza with the Roman numerals, was painfully one-sided, painfully decided by the pain Franco Harris and Rocky Bleier endured. Between them, they had rolled up 2,164 rushing yards during the regular season, two massive reasons why the Steelers had averaged 212 yards per game on the ground, why quarterback Terry Bradshaw could be selective and successful in his passing, why the defense, so well rested between appearances, could do its job so frighteningly well.

Vikings Take NFC Playoff From Rams, 24-13

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — "There's more than one way to win a football game," says Minnesota Coach Bud Grant.

Grant's Viking legion proved it again Sunday, turning several Los Angeles mistakes into points and a 24-13 victory in the National Football Conference title game.

The Vikings, who became the first team to qualify for a fourth Super Bowl appearance, meet Oakland Jan. 9 at Pasadena, Calif., in Super Bowl XI.

"We've got the people who believe they can kick it, catch it, block it or whatever has to be done," said Grant. "They proved again that there's more than one or two ways to win these things."

Minnesota, buoyed by the brilliant play of its special teams and the offensive firepower of Chuck Foreman, raced to a 17-0 lead early in the third period before Los Angeles made a late charge.

The Vikings turned two Ram turnovers into a 10-0 halftime lead. Bobby Bryant sailed 90 yards with a blocked field goal attempt for a touchdown and Fred Cox kicked a 25-yard field goal after a blocked punt.

"They have a history of blocking kicks and punts, and they're very good at it," said Rams quarterback Pat

Haden, who engineered the Los Angeles comeback. "We had some breakdowns and gave them too many easy points."

The Rams, who have lost three straight NFC championship games, drove to the Minnesota one midway through the opening period. After Haden failed to score on third down, the Rams decided to try for the field goal.

Nate Allen, acquired earlier in the season from San Francisco, came through untouched to block the field goal try and Bryant picked up the football in full stride on his scoring run to give Minnesota a 7-0 lead.

"We just tried to get a good jump on the ball and Nate does that very well," said Bryant, who also intercepted two Haden passes.

Los Angeles' Tom Dempsey, who had a potential game-winning field goal blocked by Allen in a 10-10 overtime tie with the Vikings in the regular season, said the timing was off a fraction of a second on the play.

Foreman, finishing the day with 118 yards rushing, raced 62 yards to the Los Angeles two on the second play of the third period. He blasted in from the one two plays later, and Minnesota pulled ahead 17-0.

"They could have rolled over," said Grant, praising the Ram comeback. "They were every bit as good, maybe even better, than we thought they were going into the game."

Viking quarterback Fran Tarkenton, trying to hit rookie Sammy White in the end zone with a scoring pass that could have given Minnesota a 24-0 lead, was intercepted by Monte Jackson. The revived Rams swept 80 yards in six plays, Lawrence McCutcheon scoring on a 10-yard run.

Dempsey missed the point after, and Minnesota had a 17-6 lead with less than 20 minutes to go in the game.

Two minutes later, Tarkenton fumbled at his own 22 and Jack Youngblood returned it to the Viking eight.

On third down, Haden lobbed a five-yard scoring pass to Harold Jackson and Dempsey added the extra point, shrinking the Minnesota advantage to 17-13.

"There was no doubt in my mind at that point that we'd win," said Haden. "We just felt we'd score again."

The Rams drove into Minnesota territory twice in the fourth quarter, but their final effort stalled at the 39 when Bryant stepped in front of Ron Jessie for his second interception of the game.

Foreman finally wiped out the Rams' hopes, taking a short Tarkenton pass at the Viking 40, and racing to the Los Angeles' 12 before he was knocked out of bounds.

Foreman's backup, Sammy Johnson, smashed up the middle on a 13-yard scoring burst with 33 seconds left and the Rams were dead.

"You've got to give them credit," said Los Angeles Coach Chuck Knox. "They know how to win."

And, like Grant says, in more ways than one.

Logic And Humor

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Humor, says Temple University mathematician John A. Paulos, must be logical to be funny.

A good humorist must have a logical mind and an instinctive grasp of paradox as well as a quick wit. He must be able to see the incongruities of two opinions or ways of life within the same logical context, Dr. Paulos explains.

"Dogmatists, demagogues, 'true believers' and people of that caliber are notoriously lacking in humor," says Dr. Paulos, who has made a study of it. "They lack perspective. They're rigid, inflexible, usually very dull and often dangerous."

Vikings Take NFC Playoff From Rams, 24-13

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — "There's more than one way to win a football game," says Minnesota Coach Bud Grant.

Grant's Viking legion proved it again Sunday, turning several Los Angeles mistakes into points and a 24-13 victory in the National Football Conference title game.

The Vikings, who became the first team to qualify for a fourth Super Bowl appearance, met Oakland Jan. 9 at Pasadena, Calif., in Super Bowl XI.

"We've got the people who believe they can kick it, catch it, block it or whatever has to be done," said Grant. "They proved again that there's more

You are also endowed with the gift of leadership but, unlike many other leaders, you exercise this gift so unostentatiously that others are scarcely aware that they are being led.

It is important, therefore, that you choose your activities wisely so that, unwittingly, you do not lead others astray. You have a good head for business and a strong sense of responsibility; could succeed in the commercial world or in the field of finance; would also make a first-class organizer, statesman, engineer or scientist. Try to avoid a tendency toward sarcasm.

Views On Tiger

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A mildly interesting, upbeat drama is on CBS tonight. It stars Ralph Waite of "The Waltons" as a college president who takes two months off to experience life as a common laborer.

Bearing an awful title, "The Secret Life of John Chapman," it's a fictional version of the best-selling "Blue Collar Journal."

The journal was kept by Dr. John R. Coleman, head of Haverford College in Pennsylvania, when he briefly left the academic life to earn his keep with his hands, to see life as a plain working stiff.

In tonight's 90-minute show, Waite plays Dr. John Chapman, a widower, father of two college-age children (Elayne Heilveil and Brad Davis), head of a small college and a disgruntled idealist of sorts.

He's the sort of guy who, when the tweedy heads of the school suggest raising tuition again to meet expenses, argues it will discriminate against poor young scholars and barely bother the rich.

But later, what he regards as worthwhile in life is jolted when his son, Andy, informs him he's dropping out of college, turning his back on the diploma-means-good-life concept and shall drive a taxi instead.

Chapman sets out to examining his own life, his own values. Before long, he's taking a two-month sabbatical, to experience the blue-collar life to which his son has headed.

It gives him a new insight into the blue-collar life, but no income from it until construction boss (Pat Hingle) signs him up as a ditch digger.

It's at this point the show falters as it starts depicting the blue-collar life through rose-colored glasses. In the best Hollywood tradition, the boss is gruff but his heart is solid gold.

Minor crises do occur, as when Chapman and a waitress fall in love, despite their differences in background. But the rosy view prevails, no one is nasty and the show has no real bite to it.

It's optimistic, which is good, but becomes too predictable to give this saga of a college president on the workingman's road any more than a B-plus in pleasant and a C-minus in reality.

Medical Students Study Nutrition

NEW YORK (AP) — Nutrition, the science of what happens to the human body as a result of diet, is being introduced to New York Medical College's curriculum this year.

Nutrition has always been passed over lightly in medical schools, says program director Dr. Jack M. Cooperman. "Although students are well-tutored in the fundamentals of basic nutrients, most of them graduate without acquiring practical knowledge of how nutrition relates to good health and to disease processes."

Although Americans are some of the best-fed people in the world, nutritional deficiencies abound and cut across all socioeconomic levels, he adds.

The New York Medical College program, funded by a U.S. Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare grant, will cover undernutrition, malnutrition, obesity, and the relationship of diet to physical and mental development and to disorder and diseases such as diabetes and cancer.

Eight People Injured In Weekend Wrecks

Eight people were injured in 24 traffic accidents investigated by Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputies on ice and snow covered roads and highways over the Christmas weekend.

Four of the injured were hurt in a three-car accident 9:30 p.m. Friday on Tarlton Road, three-tenths of a mile east of Route 23.

Drivers of the three cars involved were Connie Sue Wilson, 18, 409 Faye Ave., who suffered back and neck injuries; Randy J. Scott, 18, 315 Mingo St., who suffered abrasions and contusions to his face and a laceration to the right side of his head; and Elsie M. Haley, 49, 8526 Stoutsville Pike, who suffered contusions and abrasions.

Leisha M. McNichols, 14, 523 E. Union St., a passenger in Scott's car, suffered a large laceration to the right side of her head and contusions and abrasions to her face, arms, and legs.

All of the injured except Ms. Wilson were treated at Berger Hospital's emergency room and released. She was referred to a family doctor for treatment by Deputy Sheriff Jim Deal.

According to the report of Deputy Deal, cars driven by Ms. Wilson and Scott were headed west on the Tarlton Road when Ms. Wilson apparently attempted to pass the Scott car on a hillcrest.

The Wilson car apparently struck the Scott car after she saw Ms. Haley's vehicle approaching from the east.

Impact on the left front portion of Scott's car forced the vehicle off the right side of the road. It climbed a 10 foot embankment for 32 feet, hit a mailbox owned by Gail Wolfe, Route 1, rolled over once, went airborne for 30 feet, and rolled over two more times before coming back to Tarlton Road.

Ms. Wilson's car, after impact with the Scott car, was forced into the left side of Ms. Haley's auto, and continued 327 feet out of control until it came to rest sideways on the Tarlton Road.

The accident is under investigation by Deputy Deal. Ms. Wilson said Scott stopped in the road, forcing her to pass.

Fifteen-year-old Michael K. Woods, 13210 Carson Road, Route 2, Orient, was treated at Berger Hospital for bumps and bruises and later released following a car-bicycle accident 3:30 p.m. Friday on Route 762, one-tenth of a mile south of Route 62.

Driver of the car was Michael J. Rubrecht, 16, 10063 Darby Creek Road.

According to Deputy Sheriff William Carmean, Woods was riding a bicycle north on Route 762 and went left of the center line and into the path of Rubrecht's southbound auto.

Woods was thrown onto the hood of the car at impact, and rolled onto the pavement.

Teresa L. Nichols, 19, 8704 Duvall Road, Ashville, was referred to a doctor for treatment of injuries she suffered in a 6:10 p.m. Sunday accident on Route 23, a mile and half north of Route 752.

Ms. Nichols suffered abrasions and contusions to her left knee and leg, according to Deputy Sheriff Jim Deal.

She was apparently driving north on Route 23 when her car skidded on ice and snow. The vehicle slid 39 feet sideways and off the road for 84 feet before hitting a light pole at the roadside park.

David R. Thompson, 24, 28893 Tarlton-Adelphi Road, Laurelville, suffered severe facial lacerations and contusions and abrasions to his face and hands, and a passenger, Deborah S. Young, 21, Tarlton, suffered contusions and a large bump to the right side of her forehead and abrasions and contusions to her knee in a 10:30 p.m. Sunday accident.

The accident occurred on the Winchester-Southern Road at the Old Tarlton Road intersection, according to Deputy Deal.

Thompson was driving south on the Winchester-Southern Road when he attempted to apply his brakes at the intersection of the Old Tarlton Road and slid through the intersection.

The car was out of control for 68 feet and slid into a ditch.

Thompson and Miss Young walked to the home of Tom Garrett, Amanda, and were taken to Berger Hospital by Mr. Garrett. They were treated for their injuries and released.

PLENTIFUL PORK

BARGAIN BONANZA

Pork prices are the lowest in two years. With a 20% greater supply forecast through early 1977,* they should stay low for several months more.

Today's pork is a better value than 20 years ago. Offers more meat in relation to bone, thanks to special breeding. Contains 22% more protein, 57% less fat and 36% fewer calories. Provides high-quality protein, B-vitamins, niacin, phosphorus and iron.

Firm, grayish-pink meat with just enough fat for flavor indicates pork at its best—the Kroger kind. And we trim away all but 1/4" outside fat.

The Kroger Open Date, stamped on the package, assures freshness. It is the last day the package will be sold for product to stay fresh for normal use at home.

Cook pork carefully. It is just right when it is creamy-white inside with no pink color. (170 degrees internal temperature is ideal for pork roasts.) Avoid over-cooking which dries out meat.
